PREFACE.

In January, 1887, the Trustees of Cornell University received from the Hon. Andrew Dickson White, LL.D., L.H.D., late its President and Professor of History, the following letter :—

CORNELL UNIVERSITY, Jan. 19, 1887.

GENTLEMEN OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES,—Some thirty-five years ago, while I was still a student at college, I formed the purpose of collecting a historical library. From that time to this, at home and abroad, I have steadily kept this purpose in view, selecting the best works I could find, not only in history proper, but in the subsidiary fields of Literature, Political and Social Science, International Law, and Art (including especially Architecture). I have particularly sought those throwing light upon the great events, periods, and tendencies of human thought and action, upon the development of modern civilization, upon the building up of modern states, upon the men who have bettered the condition of mankind.

As a result, I have accumulated a library of about thirty thousand volumes, besides some ten thousand valuable pamphlets, and not a few manuscripts. In almost all its departments, I may say without undue partiality, there are very many works rare and valuable; in several the collection would doubtless be considered remarkable; and in one or two it is certainly unequalled in the United States. The bringing together of this library has been to me a labor of love. It consists to an unusual extent of primary sources and original materials for historical study; and my thought has been not solely of myself, but of the American scholars of the future. It has always been my intention to place it some day as a whole where it could be used to the best advantage by historical students. The cost of the collection, with its catalogues, has been, in money, as nearly as I can now estimate, rather more than a hundred thousand dollars. Its present value, consisting as it does in great part of works scarce, long sought, and yearly appreciating in price, it would be hard to reckon in dollars and cents; but something of its practical worth I have had occasion to know by its use during my professorships at the University of Michigan and at Cornell University; and I hope that it may yet serve others even more fully than it has served me.

A part of this library—that bearing upon Architecture—I gave to Cornell University upon the establishment of its Architectural Department; and the occasion of the establishment of a Law School and the reorganization of the Department of History and Political Science by the Trustees of the University, seems an appropriate time for me to make a fitting disposal of the remainder.

There are three places in our country, in either of which it would gratify my feeling of local and personal attachment to bestow it as a gift. Foremost among these is Cornell University; and in case there can be provided for the collection, at some day not far distant, a suitable fire-proof room in any building which shall be erected for your general library, and proper provision made for its maintenance and usefulness, it will give me pleasure to place it permanently in your custody.

In case you shall view this proposal with favor, I shall be happy to meet any committee you may appoint to arrange the conditions on which the gift may be made and accepted.

I remain, gentlemen, Very respectfully yours,

ANDREW D. WHITE.

The following resolutions were thereupon unanimously adopted :—

Resolved, That the Trustees of Cornell University accept with gratitude the munificent offer of Ex-President White to present his valuable library to the University, and tender him their hearty thanks, in which they feel that the Faculty and the alumni of the University, as well as all friends of higher education, most cordially unite.

Resolved, That a committee of five, embracing the President of the University and the Chairman of the Board, be appointed to arrange with Dr. White the details and conditions on which his proposed munificent gift of his historical and political library shall be accepted by Cornell University.

The conditions agreed to by the Committee for the acceptance of the gift are embodied in the following letter :—

CORNELL UNIVERSITY, ITHACA, NEW YORK, July 5, 1887.

To the Members of the Committee of the Trustees of Cornell University appointed to consider the proposal of Andrew D. White regarding the transfer of his library to Cornell University :—

GENTLEMEN,—In accordance with the understanding arrived at during our recent meeting, I hereby respectfully present my proposal embodying the terms upon which I prefer that my library be accepted by the University (and by the words “my library,” wherever used in this document, I mean all books, pamphlets, and newspapers belonging to me, whether in Ithaca or in Syracuse or already deposited in the University Library):—

I. The University shall provide, within four years from the date of this letter, a suitable room or rooms for the reception of forty thousand volumes, in a fire-proof building upon the University grounds, the said room or rooms to be separate from those containing the general library of the University. It is my wish and expectation that all the books, pamphlets, and newspapers of my library, so far as it may be possible to include them under the topics of history and political science, be placed therein; and in case it seem wise that my books relating to other subjects be incorporated with the general library of the University, that then and in that case a number equivalent to them, so far as possible, of works relating to history or to political science be transferred in their stead from the general library to the said room or rooms.

II. The Trustees of the University shall set apart annually, from any funds now, or hereafter to be, in their control, the sum of five thousand four hundred dollars ($5,400), the same to be forever appropriated and used in the following manner and for the purposes hereinafter named, to wit:—

(1) Eight hundred dollars ($800) to be annually set apart, which shall be devoted to the purchase of books in the fields of study to which my library is especially devoted; namely, history and the branches kindred thereto.

(2) Six hundred dollars ($600) to be annually set apart, which shall provide for the salary of a Librarian, to have charge of the collection, subject to the Librarian of the University.

(3) Five hundred dollars ($500) to be annually set apart for the maintenance of a Fellowship in Modern History, the same to be awarded annually by the Faculty of the University under the general rules and conditions governing the award of the Fellowships already existing.

(4) Five hundred dollars ($500) to be annually set apart for the maintenance of a Fellowship in Political and Social Science, the same to be awarded annually by the Faculty of the University under the general rules and conditions governing the award of the Fellowships already existing, but with preference to any candidate of ability and purpose who shall propose to make practical studies upon living social questions, such as pauperism, crime, inebriety, illiteracy, the relations of capital to labor, of educational institutions to public instruction, and the like. And I see no reason why either or both of the above-described Fellowships should not, in the discretion of the Faculty, be made a travelling Fellowship, for the purpose of study and investigation, the holder thereof making from time to time to the Faculty such reports of his progress as they may require; nor do I see any reason why, in the case of a student of very exceptional ability and promise in either of the fields above specified, the two Fellowships may not for a single year, in the discretion of the Faculty and for the sake of enabling more thorough research, be combined into one.

(5) Three thousand dollars ($3,000) to be annually set apart for the maintenance of a Professorship of History, with the understanding that the duty of such Professor shall be to give instruction in such part or parts of the general field indicated by his title as may be thought by the Faculty most advisable, and that instruction in International Law may, if it be thought best by the Faculty, be included in the duties of such Professor.

III. And the Trustees of the University shall also set apart the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000), to be appropriated and used for the preparation and publication, as a whole or in parts, of a catalogue of the works embraced in the several divisions of my library. And if any part of the said sum of ten thousand dollars shall remain after the said catalogue shall have been prepared and printed, then and in that case a sum equal to the annual interest of the said residue at six per cent. shall be annually added to the sum hereinbefore stipulated as to be set apart for the purchase of books in the fields of study to which my library is especially devoted.

IV. And inasmuch as, notwithstanding the care taken in the collection of my own library and of that of the University to avoid the duplication of books, a certain number of works have been unavoidably duplicated, it is understood that all books in my library published during the present century which are ascertained to be duplicates of books already in the possession of the University Library are withdrawn by me, and may be retained by me or by my heirs and assigns permanently. (And by "duplicates" I understand and here mean books identical in contents, and do not consider a book not a duplicate simply because it has a different date or is published in a different place or by a different firm. In other words, to take a book out of the category of duplicates, there must be some real and substantial difference in the text,—either increase or improvement in the matter or in the treatment.)

And I also hereby stipulate that all books named in the schedule hereto annexed, being, in the main, works of comparatively small value, but which for various (and generally for personal) reasons my family or myself desire to retain, in number not exceeding five hundred volumes, may be retained by me or by them,—this said reserve not to include any of the manuscripts or reproductions of manuscripts, on vellum or paper, or early printed works, or books of especial value in connection with the history of the Revival of Learning, or of the Reformation, or of the French Revolution, or of the American Civil War, or of the Jesuits, or of Witchcraft, or of Torture, or of Education.

And it is also agreed that I may, for the space of my lifetime, or until such time during my lifetime as may seem to me best, retain five thousand volumes upon deposit, a memorandum of the same to be held by the Librarian of the University, and said works to be considered as the property of the University, for which I am responsible to it.

Trusting that this arrangement may be satisfactory to your Board, I remain, Gentlemen,

Very respectfully and truly yours,

ANDREW D. WHITE.

In accordance with these provisions, the catalogue of the President White Library, already far advanced at the time of the gift, has since been pushed steadily toward completion. A first division is now given to the press. As will be seen, it is an author-catalogue, with subject-entries under persons and places.

The history and character of the library as a whole, the items of its special wealth, the form of its catalogue, will be discussed in a general introduction later to be issued. It needs here to say only a word of the limits of the present division and of the bibliographical aids cited in it.

The limits of such a topical catalogue must always be more or less arbitrary. To avoid trenching unnecessarily upon the territory of the political history of the several European nations throughout the Reformation period, upon the history of the mediæval church at its beginning, and upon that of the Counter-Reformation at its close, has been no easy task. To this end, the Protestant Reformation has been understood to mean the religious and social, but not the political, movement of its time. By its Forerunners have been understood the schismatics and heretics who, from the Waldenses to Luther, sought to bring about a reformation by individual teaching or practice; but not the great churchmen and Councils who attempted it through the Church herself. Natural stopping-points have suggested themselves: for Germany the Religious Peace of Augsburg (1555), for France the outbreak of the Wars of Religion (1562), for Europe in general the close of the Council of Trent (1563); but it has seemed unwise to hold to these dates with absolute rigor. In general, all the works of the Reformers produced in the third quarter of the 16th century are included in the present catalogue, while those of their opponents written after the middle of the century are reserved for that which will embrace the Catholic Reformation. To draw a line between German Humanism and the Reformation has not been attempted: from Reuchlin onward all the works of the Humanists who were in any way associated with the Reformers are here included. Of the poets and satirists, only those productions are named which deal directly with the religious struggle; yet always, in cases of doubt, inclusion has been preferred to exclusion. It is hardly necessary to add that no general histories, universal, national, or ecclesiastical, save such as devote a distinct and separately-titled volume to the period of the Reformation, will here be found.

Of the bibliographies especially referred to, the most important are Panzer's Annalen der ältern deutschen Litteratur (Nürnberg, 1788-1805) and Weller's supplement thereto—the Repertorium typographicum (Nördlingen, 1864). To these works (cited simply as 'Panzer' or as 'Weller, Rep.') reference is made from all books printed during the period which they cover—that prior to 1527. 'Hain,' for books printed before 1500, means, of course, that author's Repertorium bibliographicum (Stuttgart, 1826-38). The other authorities briefly cited are: Weller's Annalen der poetischen National-Literatur der Deutschen (Freiburg i. B., 1862-64), as 'Weller, Ann.,'—Goedecke's invaluable Grundriss zur Geschichte der deutschen Dichtung (2te Aufl., Bde. i-iii, Dresden, 1884-87),—and W. von Maltzahn's Deutscher Bücherschatz (Jena, 1875).

Of the collections of Reformation literature whose titles most frequently recur—'Gratius, Fasciculus,' 'Hutten's Op., ed. Böcking,' 'Pasquillorum tomi duo,' 'Schade, Satiren,' 'Schelhorn, Amoenitates—sufficient descriptions will be found, under the proper headings, in the catalogue itself. Only the curious reprint hodge-podge of the Stuttgart bookseller Scheible, fancifully entitled Das Kloster, must, though often cited, await a later section for a list of its heterogeneous contents.

The titles of all books printed before 1600 are given in full, from both title-page and colophon, with indication of line-endings. Only epigraphs, texts, prefaces, and other irrelevant matter are omitted, their place being taken by a descriptive word. Ligatures and abbreviations are spelt out. Of books of the 17th century full titles are not given, but all omissions are indicated. Of later books, save of such as seemed rare and curious enough to be treated like incunabula, the titles have been abridged at will (though sparingly) and without signs of ellipsis. The imprint—properly no part of the title—has been remanded to the note, except in books older than 1600; and even in these it is repeated in the note when the transcribed form of it is in any way obscure.

In the titles, italics are used for words inserted by the cataloguer, whether (1) in description or (2) in the spelling out of ligatures and abbreviations. But, with the exception of the constantly recurring 'At end' in titles of the era of colophons and of 'etc.' in modern titles, all descriptive additions are also bracketed. In titles antedating 1700, italics have also been used for words which in a Gothic title-page are printed in Latin type, or the reverse. In the notes, titles are themselves italicized.

As stated in the letter of Mr. White, care has from the first been taken by him to avoid the purchase of books already in the University Library. It has seemed just, therefore, to include in this catalogue the few additional works possessed by the University in this field. These are marked by a C at the end of the title. A certain amount of duplication has, however, been unavoidable; and D and d at the end of titles denote respectively that the University has already an exact or a virtual duplicate of the book described.

The notes will, it is hoped, be of use not only to the bibliographer, but to the student also. It is in the interest of the latter that the date and place of the writing, as well as those of the printing, of early books have been noted.

SIZES OF BOOKS.

The disuse of fixed sizes of paper consequent on the improvement of the printing-press has long made useless and well nigh impracticable the old nomenclature for the forms of books. In view of this, the American Library Association has urged its entire abandonment and the substitution of an exact metric measurement of each volume. That suggestion is here adopted. Where the book is of the usual shape (the width about three-fifths the height—as in what are currently called ‘octavos’), the height alone is given (as ‘23^h’); where otherwise, both height and width, the height preceding (as ‘23×20’). Fractional centimeters are reckoned as whole ones. These measurements may, for the most part, be readily translated into the old nomenclature (as now used by American libraries) by means of the following

A bibliography of the many editions and versions of this famous satire—commonly known as the Julius exclusus—is prefixed. As to its authorship, the best modern scholars agree with Böcking in ascribing it to Andrelini, on the authority of the title of the first impression (1513), F. A. F. Poete

The Fragmentum also is ascribed by Böcking to Andronico.

Bible. English. The holy Bible, containing the Old and New Testaments, with the apocryphal books, in the earliest English versions made from the Latin Vulgate by John Wycliffe and his followers; ed. by J. Forshall and Sir F. Madden. C.

Oxford, 1850. 34^h. 4 v. Two versions in parallel columns.

Contents:—i. Genesis—Ruth. ii. Kings—Psalms. iii. Proverbs—Maccabees. iv. Matthew—Apocalypse.

—Biblia The Bible, that is, the holy Scripture of the Olde and Newe Testament, faithfully and truly translated out of Douche and Latyn in to Englishe [by M. Coverdale]. M. D. XXXV.

n. p., 1535. 30×20. Black-letter. In double cols. of 47 lines. 2 specimen leaves of 'Coverdale's Bible', the first printed ed. of the whole Bible in English; namely, ff. lxxiii and lxxx (containing ch. xiv, 5—xv, 38, and xvii, 36—xix, 15 of 'The iij boke of the kynges'). 'This Bible was for a long time supposed to have been printed at Zurich, but in 1877 Mr. H. Stevens, in the Catalogue of the Caxton Exhibition, gave strong reasons for believing it to have been printed by J. van Meteren, at Antwerp.'—Brit. Mus. Cat. of Early Engl. Books, 1884 (from which the above title is copied). This specimen fragment, as well as those of the two Bibles next to be described, were 'bound by W. Pratt for H. Stevens, 1876,' and obtained directly from that eminent antiquary, who is presumably responsible for their identification. It is perhaps noteworthy that not even the British Museum itself possesses a perfect copy either of this or of the 'Great Bible' next described. See, for description, Cotton's Editions of the Bible (2d ed., pp. 8–10, 274, 275); and Dore's Old Bibles, p. 25.

ard Grafton | & Edward Whitchurch. | [Priv.] | 1539.

[Paris and London,] 1539. 39×27. Black-letter. In double cols. of 60 lines. t.-p. partly in red. 3 specimen leaves of this first ed. of the 'Great Bible'; namely, the title-page and ff. lxiii, lxx (containing chapters ii, 11—iv, 7 and xviii, 11—xxi, 7 of 'The Prophecy of Jeremy').

See, for an account of this famous ed. and of the difficulties under which it was printed, Cotton's Editions of the Bible (2d ed., pp. 15, 279, 280); and Dore's Old Bibles, p. 41. The t.-p. contains a very elaborate wdct border, ascribed to Holbein, representing Henry VIII dispensing the Scriptures from his throne, with Cranmer and Cromwell aiding him. In the present copy, however, this wdct-page is probably one of the subordinate t.-pp. of the volume, with the letter-press of the main title inserted; for the insertion is evident, and that the reverse of the leaf does not bear 'The names of all the bookes of the Byble,' as in the copies elsewhere described, is apparent, in spite of the mutilated leaf (containing the preface 'To the Reader') confusingly pasted upon it.

— The whole Byble, that is the holy scripture of the Olde and Newe testament faythfully translated into Englyshe by Myles Coverdale and newly oversene and correcte. M. D. L. Prynted for Andrew Hester.

[Zürich,] 1550. 23×19. Black-letter. In double cols. of 50 lines. 2 specimen leaves, namely, ff. cccclxxvi, cccclxxvii (containing ch. iv, 47—vii, 38 of 'The II. boke of the Machabees'). Title copied from Brit. Mus. Cat. cited above. Lettered (by H. Stevens?) 'second edition,' but according to Cotton and Lowndes it is the third edition of Coverdale's translation, the second having been printed by Nyclolson at Southwark in 1537. This third edition was printed by Christoph Froschauer (thought by some to have been the printer of the first edition also) at Zürich. See, for proof of this and for description, Cotton's Editions of the Bible (2d ed., pp. 23, 289).

— OLD TESTAMENT. Pentateuch. William Tyndale's five books of Moses, called the Pentateuch; a verbatim reprint of the edition of 1530, compared with Tyndale's Genesis of 1534, and the Pentateuch in the Vulgate, Luther, and Matthew's Bible, with collations and prolegomena, by J. I. Mombert. C.

[Strasburg, 1524?] 21×16. ff. 47+[1]. Weller, Rep., 2788. No. 1 in vol. lettered German Tracts by Reformers, I. The full-page wdct at end, representing a scholar and an angel under an apple-tree, the tree bearing in its branches a frog surmounted by the initials 'C. F.' and at its base the initials 'ZCH,' can hardly be anything else than the device of Christoph Froschauer, Zürich. Yet Weller ascribes the book to the press of Joh. Prüss, at Strasburg, and Graesse (absurdly) to the year 1550. The author describes himself as an 'vngenanter lāy,' who has taken upon himself 'einfaltiger weise, in disen geuerlichen zeiten, etwas in druck in die geleerte welt vssgen lassen.' Two or three allusions to that 'hoch geleerten, theuren, grossen fass Gottes, D. Martin Luther' show the writer a Protestant (though leaning to the Zwinglian view of the Lord's Supper), and favor the date suggested by Weller — c. 1524.

n. p., [1518?]. 19×14. pp. [15]. In vol. lettered 46 Tractaten. Not in Panzer or Weller, and apparently unknown to the historians. This vigorous tractate (not satire) against the tonsure, and incidentally against monkery and 'Pfaffenhum' in general is printed from the same type as Ulrich von Hutten's Gedicht von einem Tyrannen (the German transl. of his Phalarismus), which must have appeared in 1518 (see Weller, Rep., 1118). An allusion to 'ietzundt dises Jubel jar (das der Antichrist gen Rom gelegt hatt vmb beranbung vnd betrugs willen deutscher nation eingesetzt)' would seem, however, to indicate either 1525 or 1500 as the date of its composition; and the absence of all mention of the Reformation lends probability to the earlier date, though so early an identification of the Pope with Antichrist is (if it be not an interpolation) rather startling. The Brit. Mus. Cat. is certainly wrong in suggesting 1530 as the date of impression; and even 1522, the conjecture of W. v. Maltzahn (in his Bücherschatz), can hardly be early enough, since the type is as sharp and fresh as in Hutten's Gedicht. The little book attacks bitterly those who rush to Rome 'nach ablass, nach Römischem dreck,' complains that many would-be reformers are languishing in convent-dungeons, and is in general (if so early as appears) a significant forerunner of the Reformation.

Bulla | diaboli, qva | paterne papam svvm | admonet, atque instruit quomo- | do gerere se debeat in re- | genda Romana Cu | ria, & toto terra- | rum orbe. | [Text.] At end: Datum apud centrum terræ in | nostro palacio tenebroso, præ- | senti cetera-ua Dæmonum ad hoc | præcipue conuocata ad con- | sisto | rium dolorosum, sub nostri sigil- | li caractere terribili in ro- | bore perpetuo ac fide ali | da præmissorum. | [Signed] Farfarellus. | Catabriga Secretarius.

[? Magdeburg, 1550.] 16h. pp. 15+[1]. Save for its t.-p. and preface and for the signature at end, this satire is substantially identical with the Epistola de non apostolicis quorundam moribus qui in apostolorum se locum successisse gloriantur repr. (both in its Latin orig. and in threefold German transl. of 1521) in Schade, Satiren, ii, 80-92; yet the variations in text are sufficient to preclude its being a mere reprint of that impression. The present is, however, confessedly a reimpression, for its preface speaks of its appearance 'ante XXX et eo amplius annos,' and refers to its author as one of those who lived 'ante centum annos.' Schade's version (undated, but ascribed by Panzer to a Basel press, and certainly antedating 1521) has at end the date 'anno a palatii nostri fractione . . . millesimo trecentesimo quinquagesimo primo' and the signature 'Beelzebub | vester specialis amicus.' Are both these forms only variants of that earlier Epistola ad malos principes ecclesiasticos (1507) ascribed by Flacius (followed by Weller, Lex. pseud., s. v. Lucifer), who republished it in 1549, to Nicolas Oresme, and which, according to Wattenbath, first appeared at Avignon in 1351? All stand alike upon the Index, and Reusch (in his Der Index, i, 291) identifies the two latter, though failing to recognize their relation to the Bulla. Certainly neither of them is, as says the Brit. Mus. Cat. (s. v. Beelzebub), 'a satirical pamphlet on the Reformation controversy.' According to Brunet a German transl. of the Bulla diaboli appeared at Magdeburg in 1550; and it is not improbable that both this and the Bulla itself were the work of Flacius, who in that year (according to Reusch) turned into German the Epistola Luciferi. The date of impression (1545) given the Bulla by Peignot and Grasse is pure conjecture.

The curious and significant tracts above enumerated are said to have been written by Eberlin during his stay in Switzerland in 1521-22, and to have been printed by Gengenbach at Basel. Though first issued separately, they are referred to by Eberlin himself (see his Der Frommen pfaffen trost below) under this collective title, and a collective edition (Panzer, 1207) soon appeared. More detailed descriptions of the several numbers may be found in Panzer (as above), in Grasse, in W. v. Maltzahn's Bücherschatz (i, 425), and in Gœdeke's Grundriss, (IV, § 134, 11, pp. 221-23). Reimpressions of them appeared singly in many quarters (cf. below Das lob der Pfarrer); and that Gengenbach himself issued them for separate circulation is shown by the present copy of 'Der. IX. bundtsgnoss.' which (unlike those described by Panzer and W. v. Maltzahn) lacks these words—though a contemporary hand has supplied them in ms.

[Basel, 1557.] 13h. pp. [498]. t.-p. border. Böcking, Index Ep., 9. Vol. ii has sep. t.-p. (Allerum volumen, etc.), but continuous signatures. The 'Dialogus in calce' is app. to vol. i, and is the Dialogus novus et mire festivus ex quorundam virorum salibus cribatus (Böcking, Index Reuch., xxx), for other impressions of which see Dialogus, etc. The other satires (De generibus ebriosorum, etc.) often appended to this edition of the Epistolæ are not found in the present copy, but are all in the edition next to be described. The authorship of this most boisterous and most effective of satires is still a mystery. At first attributed to Reuchlin himself, then to Reuchlin, Erasmus, and Hutten, the emphatic repudiation of it by the two elder scholars left Hutten's responsibility for it almost unquestioned. But modern scholarship has thrown great doubts upon this, and the keenest critics now incline to give to his friend Crotus Rubianus a larger share in its production, assigning to Hutten (on the strength of his own letters) no part in its inception or in the first issue, and only a subordinate one in the second. The best description of the work is perhaps the chapter upon it in Strauss's Hutten, where its composition is thus summed up: 'The Epistolæ Obscurorum Virorum, as we now have them, consist, first, of the forty-one letters of the first and second editions of 1515 and 1516; secondly, of the seven letters forming the appendix to the third edition. Thirdly, of the second part, 1517, containing sixty-two letters, to the second edition of which an appendix of eight letters was added. The ninth, or rather first letter, is a repetition of one in Part I; the eighth letter of the first appendix is a later interpolation; and the so-called third part of the Epistolæ, first printed in 1689, is a collection of additions of various periods, and has nothing whatever to do with the original work.' The best of the numerous editions is that of Böcking, described below, with valuable bibliographical indices.

Appended to vol. i is the Dialogus novus et mire festivus, and to vol. ii the following: Conciliabulum theologistarum, Huttenus captivus, Huttenus illustris, De generibus ebriosorum, De fide meretricum, De fide concubinarum, Prognostica (by A. Gartner), Monopolium philosophorum, Marcolphus, and Disputatio de Cornelio; for all which see also under their several titles. 'Kritischen Werth hat diese Ausgabe so wenig als eine der vorhergehenden seit 1557 gemachten, aber sie wird ihrer netten äusseren Beschaffenheit wegen, und weil sie sel- tener ist als die übrigen neueren Duodeztausgaben, meistens überschätzt.' — Böcking.

n. p., [1521]. 19×15. pp. [15]. Weller, Rep., 1846. Lower half of last leaf torn off; but apparently without mutilation of text. Lettered Luther in Worms. This is that rare contemporary account of the Diet of Worms on whose authority largely rests Luther's famous utterance: 'Ich kan nicht anderst, hie stehe ich, Got helff mir, Amen.' See Köstlin's Luther, i. 452, and especially his Luthers Rede in Worms, 20, sqq. Acc. to K., it is based upon the ms. minutes of Spalatin, still preserved at Weimar. The appended safe-conducts ('geleytetz brieff') are those of the Emperor, of George of Saxony, and of Philip of Hesse.

[Strasburg, 1510.] 21×16. pp. [556 instead of 567]. Black-letter. Initials indicated. The type is Schurer's (as in the Fragmenta passionis—see below), but there is no colophon such as Panzer cites (vi, p. 50). The Compendiosa vite [Geiler's] descriptio has been detached and is bound separately (see Rhenanus, B.). P. 556 is blank. Only two wdcts: one on the t.-p., the other occupying p. [52], between index and text. The pref. letter of Otho (dated 'Ex Argenti. Idus Februarij. Ann. M. D. X.'), the Turnarum annotatio, and the Index occupy pp. [2-3, 4-13, and 14-51] respectively; then the text, filling the remainder of the vol. to p. [555], where it is closed by Otho's brief epilogue to the reader (bearing same date as his pref.). At top of t.-p. the contemp. autogr.: 'P. F. Sebastianum . . . Anno 15. 11mo.'

20×16. pp. [557]. Black-letter, excepting the editorial portions, to wit: the prefatory letter to J. Wydel ex Gersbach, the concluding letter to the reader, and the Geileri vita, which are in Roman type. It is profusely illustrated, containing, besides the title-vignette, 112 wdcts, said to be by Hans Baldung Grün and Urs Graf; but several of these are repeated. Many of them are borrowed from the 1497 edition of Brandt's Narrenschiff, and have German inscriptions. Besides the 22 ff. of preliminary matter (pref. letter, Turnarum annotatio, and Materiarum index) and the 3 ff. of the Geileri vita at the end, this edition contains 254 ff.—not 147 as Brunet, or 137 as Grasse says. Many ms. notes.

COMPLETE WORKS.

— Opera quæ reperiri potuerunt omnia; editi E. Böcking.

Lipsiæ, 1850-59. 24^h. 7 v. Double t.-pp. (Lat. and Ger.). Vols. vi and vii are lettered Supplm. 1 and Supplm. 2, i, ii, respectively.

Contents:—i. Index bibliographicus Huttenianus.—Horoscopus Hutteni.—Epistolæ Hutteni, item ad eundem deque eodem ab aliis ad alios scriptæ, 1506-1520. ii. Epistolæ Hutteni, etc., 1521-1523.—Epistolæ de eodem, 1523-1725. iii. Hutteni poemata, cum corollariis (1. Elegiæ et De arte versificandi.—2. Exhortatoria, Epigrammata, Heroica, res Germanicas, Venetas, Romanas spectantia.—3. Carmina panegyricum cum exclamatorio, deploratorium, triumphale.—4. Contra Romanistas pro Luthero).—Addenda ad voll. i, ii, iii, iv, v. iv. Hutteni dialogi, item pseudohuttenici non nulli.—Addendæ ad vol. i. Epistolæ. v. Hutteni orationes et scripta didascalica, cum corollariis.—Addenda ad voll. i, ii. vi. (Suppl. 1). Epistolæ obscurorum virorum, cum illustrantibus adversariisque scriptis. vii (Suppl. 2). 1. Index editionum Epistolarum obscurorum virorum.—Indicis bibliographici Hutteniani supplementum, cum indice libellorum non Huttenianorum.—Index scriptorum causam Reuchlinianam spectantium.—Conspectus chronologicus scriptorum gestorumque quæ præcipue ad causam Reuchlinianam et ad Epp. O. V. pertinent.—Index verborum quæ in Epp. O. V. leguntur.—Nomina eorum a quibus et ad quos Epp. O. V. scriptæ finguntur. vii, 2. Index biographicus et onomasticus.—Commentarius, sive ad Epistolarum obscurorum virorum varias partes accuratius explicandas addnotatio.—Addenda et emendanda ad Hutteni opp. voll. i-vii.

Or, less explicitly, in English:—i. Letters, 1506-20. ii. Letters, 1521-23. iii. Poetical writings. iv. Dialogues. v. Orations and didactic writings. vi. The Epistolæ obscurorum virorum. vii. Indexes, etc.

But no table of contents less extended than those of the several vols. could suggest the wealth of illustrative contemporary matter reproduced in this rich collection.

SINGLE WORKS AND COLLECTIONS.

Note.—The productions of Ulrich von Hutten are here arranged in the chronological order followed by Böcking in his Index bibliographicus Huttenianus (see his ed. of Hutten's Opera, vols. i and vii); and a reference from each title to that masterful bibliography makes more detailed description unnecessary.

Port. of Hutten, and cut of his cousin's murder. Wdct initials.
The contents include several letters of Hutten not enumerated at the t.-p. For the proof that this work was printed, not at Steckelberg, but by Schöffer at Mainz, see Böcking, as above.
The misleading colophon was only a device to save the real printer from persecution—a persecution which later, for printing Hutten's attacks on the Pope, he actually suffered. At top of the t.-p. of this copy, in a contemporary hand: 'Emi Anno xx^o ix solidos . . . In Rostochio.' Other ms. notes in same hand, including a list of book-titles.

n. p., [1520]. 21×16. pp. [19]. Böcking, xxxiii, 3. 'Chunradus Sarctor Saxofrancus' is undoubtedly a pseud., and Böcking has shown that his Oratio is only another form of the Epistola Udeloni Cymvri Cusani de exustione librorum Lutheri which appeared the same year. Weller (in his Lex. pseud.) ascribes the latter to Hutten; but Böcking says, 'De vero libelli auctore mihi non constat.' The Carmen in Aleandrum belongs clearly to the same author, as does also the Expostulatio appended to it.

16h. pp. [46]. Böcking, xlviii, 1. The prefatory verses of Eobanus Hessus are dated 'Nvrenbergæ, Anno M.D.XXXVIII. Mense Augusto.' The last leaf bears only a device; but on its reverse, in a neat contemporary hand, is the following

'Elegans et venustum Epigram- | ma in studiosorum con- | temptores | scriptum a Joanne Stygelo.

'Ausum Phœbæos quondam contemnere cantus

Prisca refert pœnas fama dedisse Mydam

Zolus ingenio magni detraxit Homeri

[sic] de | terminate explicans | [Wdct.]

n. p., [ca. 1500]. 20×14. pp. [39]. Black-letter. On p. [32] begins the Taxe sacre Penitentiearie apostolice. This impr. is apparently unknown to bibliographers. On the inside of the cover of the present copy is the following ms. note: 'Dieses Buch ist gedruckt mit denselben Typen, womit G. Biel epithoma expositionis Canonis misse ex Thubingen 1499 gedruckt ist.' Both wdct and type point to a date not far from 1500. The Taxe sacre penitentiearie apostolice is that famous official tariff of the papal pardon-office at Rome whose very existence has been for centuries denied by the defenders of the Church—as by Veuillot and Cassagnac in our own day—and its reimpressions stigmatized as Protestant forgeries. But the indisputable pre-Reformation impressions, such as the present, now coming to light make the plea no longer tenable. For a modern reprint and transl., with a list of the known copies and other valuable notes, see below Taxes de la penitencerie apostolique (1879); and, for another, Mendham, J., Life and pontificate of St. Pius V. See also Reusch, Der Index, i, 421, ii, 142.

Liber vagatorum : der Bettler Orden. [Repr., from ed. of Tübingen, 1510, in Scheible, J. Das Schaltjahr, iv. 1847.]

For the ed. here reprinted see Weller, Rep., 556; and, for a bibliography of the book in question, the Serapeum for 1862 (p. 113). As Goedeke has pointed out, the author of this popular and often reprinted satire on beggards was doubtless Pamphilus Gengenbach, the Basel printer and poet, whose rhyming edition is shown by the retention of some of its rhymes in the prose versions to be earlier than these. See Goedeke, Pamphilus Gengenbach (Hanover, 1856); also his Grundriss, § 116, and Bartsch, s. v. Gengenbach, in the Allg. deut. Biog. Appended is what has been held the oldest vocabulary of 'Rotwelsch,' or argot.

— Same. English. The book of vagabonds and beggars; with a vocabulary of their language, ed. by Martin Luther in 1528. Now first transl. into English with introd. and notes, by J. C. Hotten.

London, 1860. 20×15. pp. 37+64. Following the introd. is a frontispiece (a reprodu. of the old t.-p. wdct) and a second t.-p.: Liber vagatorum : the book of vagabonds and beggars, with a preface by Martin Luther. Printed at Wittenberg in the year M.D.XXIX. Hotten's introd. has little bibliographical value. For a not too severe review of it and a really valuable bibliography of the Liber vagatorum, see the articles by Herr J. M. Wagner in the Serapeum for 1862 (pp. 103, 113). This writer declares its first publisher to have been Thomas Anshelm at Pforzheim in 1509 and mentions as ante-type a ms. Betrügnis der Gler und Blinden; but later authorities seem to concur in Goedeke's ascription of the earliest form of the work to Gengenbach.

Lucifer, (pseud.). Ein ernstlich mandath aus der hellen an dye stendt Baider Regiment geistlich vnd weltlich, sonderlich an vnsern statthalter den Babst Ertz Bischoff, Prelaten priester vnd geschrift glernten gesandt.

A manuscript, 15×9, written on paper, in a neat 16th century Latin hand. It is undated; but internal evidence would seem to point to the decade following 1525. Thus, on fol. 3 a, occurs the sentence: Nun aber so Marthinnus Luther, wie ir wisset, sich kurtz verschnier Jar, etwas und nie wenig, wider uns, und die vnsern, sonderlich mit verrätterey, und auffdeckung vnsern AnteChristis [sic], des Babsts und seiner mitverwanthen güder . . . auffgelainet, etc. Save Luther, however, who is several times referred to, no other contemporary is mentioned by name. The text begins with the words: Wier Lutsifer: Sathannas von Beelzebub, Götter Künig, Fürsten, und Herren der Hellen, . . . sambt aller vnserer gesellschaft [sic], etc. It fills, in all, 36 ff. and ends, on fol. 36 b, with date, signature, and paraph: Datum [sic] in vnsern hellischen reich, am tag vnserer fürsorg, Anno vnserer weltlichen regierung als wir achten im letzten . . . Lutsifer mit sambt seiner gesellschaft [sic]: Endet. This little satire seems unknown to the bibliographers, and was perhaps never printed. It is—what, if the conjecture as to its date is correct, is especially remarkable—distinctly Anabaptist. The chief stress is upon the tenet of adult baptism; and the taking of oaths, luxury, titles, personal adornment, all resort to force, and even the wearing or supplying of arms are bitterly attacked. That the manuscript is the autograph of its author seems probable from the fact that a signature—“Lucifer” simply—preceding the paraph has been canceled, and the fullersignature quoted above added in the same hand after the paraph. The booklet bears on its cover the bookplate: Ex Libris Tscharnierianis Planalterre Curie Rheatorum, and on a fly-leaf the inscription: Johan Baptista de Scandolca | Anno 1698 die 12 tobris. It was bought in Zürich in July, 1886.

The authorship of this little essay, of which several editions had already appeared, seems still unknown, though the author himself tells us (pp. 12, 13—cf. also his Oratio testimonialis at end) that he was a Transylvanian, who in 1426, while a boy of fifteen or sixteen, studying at Mühlenthal, was carried off by the Turks and remained a captive among them till 1458. Appended are (pp. 155, 156) Two sermons in vulgari Tvrcorum, with (pp. 156–158) their transl. into Latin, and (pp. 159–167) the Opinio abbatis Joachimi de secto Mahometi.

— Abbildung | des | Bapstum | durch | Mart. Luth. D. | Wittenberg. | 1545.

[Wittenberg, 1545.]. 21×16. pp. [11]. t.-p. border. Weller, Ann., i, 302. Nine full-page wdcts, with descriptive verses under each, signed severally by "Mart. Luth. D. 1545." A very complete description of this rare and most significant lampoon—perhaps the coarsest product of Luther's pen—is given in the Sorapæum for 1841 by K. E. Förstemann, and one still more elaborate in the Archiv für Literaturgeschichte for 1886 by C. Wendler. The present impression is that described by the latter as the "Wittenberger Nachdruck" of 1545. The work wholly escaped the older bibliographers, but several copies are now known. The wdcts are ascribed to Lucas Cranach, on the authority of a passage in Luther's letter of 3 June 1545 to Nic. v. Amsdorf; and it would appear from this epistle that the latter, too, had some part in the publication. "Meister Lucas," here admits the Reformer himself, "ist ein grober Maler." That this impression appeared at Wittenberg is clear from the t.-p. border, which was used in other books there issued. For a vigorous tilt between the friends and foes of Luther apropos of this production see Köstlin's Luther u. Janssen, etc., Janssen's Ein Zweites Wort an meine Kritiker, and especially Wendler's summing up of the dispute in his above-cited article on Luthers Bilderpolemik.

Attached to the fore-cover of this copy is another full-page wdct, a picture of 'Der Bapstesel zu Rom' similar to that forming no. 2 of this series and to that in the Deutung der zwei ewelichen Figuren (Wittenberg, 1523), but not identical with either, being superior in execution and evidently cut from a different publication.

For the history of this time-honored satire, with its multitudinous versions, editions, and titles, see Kemble's introd. to the Anglo-Saxon Dialogue of Salomon and Saturnus, and especially Guerrini's La vita e le opere di Giulio Cesare Croce (Bologna, 1879), pp. 142-279. In its original form it is believed to be of Gnostic origin. The 'latinitate donatæ' & nunc primum editæ' of the title is, of course, absurdly false. The authorship of the satire is unknown. Though by no means a product of the Reformation, it was, as says Kemble, 'at least turned to account for its advancement.'

SINGLE WORKS.

Contemporary Impressions.

— Insti | tvtiones rhe- | toricae Phi- | lip. Mel. | VVittenbergae. | [MDXIX.]

n. p., [1519?]. 21×16. pp. [54]. t.-p. border. Wdct initial. The 'MDXIX,' though closely resembling print, is probably the work of a pen. This impr. seems unknown to the bibliographers, who know under this title nothing earlier than 1521.

1521.

n. p., [1521]. 20×16. pp. [75]. t.-p. border. Copious marginal notes, in a contemporary hand. Thomas Placentinus was the pseud. of the Roman theological professor, Rhadinus Todischi—not, as Melanchthon thought, of Emser.

— Unterschidt | zwischen weltlicher vnd Christ- | licher Fromkeyt. | Philippus Melanchthon | Hagenaw.

[Hagenau, 1521]. 21×16. pp. [7]. Panzer, 1137. Wdct initial. In vol. lettered German Tracts by Reformers, V.

[Augsburg, 1522]. 21×16. pp. [227]. Panzer, 1432. The first German ed. of Melanchthon's Locī; the transl. is Spalatín's.

1523.

— Figur des Antichristlichen | Bapsts vnd seiner Synagog | [Wdct of the 'Bapstesel zu Rom.']

n. p., [1523]. 20×15. pp. [4]. This curious product, apparently unknown to the bibliographers, is clearly the first form of Melanchthon's Deutung der Bapstesel zu Rom, for a later version of which see the next title.

—, and Luther, Martin. Deutung der czwo grew- | lichen Figuren Bapstesel | czu Rom, vnd Munch- | kalbs zu Freyberg | ynn Meysszen | funden. | Philippus Melanchthon. | D. Martinus Luther. | Wittenberg | M. Dxxij.

20×15. pp. [15]. Panzer, 1807. On pages 2, 3, full-page wdcts of Der Bapstesel zu Rom and Das Münchkalb zu Freyberg—the two imaginary monsters of which the work treats.

— [De dialectica.] At end. Impressvm VVit- | tembergae per Io- | sephvm Clvgvin. | 1529.

16^h. pp. [209]. t.-p. wanting. Text in italics. Wdct initials. Wdct on last leaf. This is that missing first impr. of the Dialectica in its revised form, whose existence the editors of the great collective ed. of Melanchthon's Opera (xiii, p. 509) suspected, but of which their search could find neither trace nor mention. Melanchthon's pref. letter to Reiffenstein is dated 'Calendis Iulii,' without year. Throughout the vol. are copious marginal notes, in a neat, fine contemporary hand somewhat resembling Melanchthon's own, partly upright in red, partly cursive in black. They are evidently those of a scholar, and end (on p. following colophon) with this signature: 'finiuit anno M. d. xxxij | Apimanus' or 'Æpimanus' (? Joh. Aepinus). Appended, in another 16th century hand, are 6 ff. (5 tables) of 'Figura de dialectica Philippi Melanchthonis.' In vol. lettered Phil. Melanchthon, Grammatica Graeca.

1530.

— Confessio odder Be- | kantnus des Glau- | bens etlicher Fürsten | vnd Stedte: Vber- | antwort Keiserlicher | Maiestat: | zu Augspurg. | Anno M. D.XXX. | Apologia der Confessio. At end. | Gedruckt zu Wittenberg durch | Georgen Rhaw. Anno. | M.D.xxxj.

See Augsburg Confession. The Apologia was written by Melanchthon, by whom also the Confessio was mainly drawn up.

— Dehortaciones a presbyterio seu | rationes dehortantes a pres | biterio p p: m: [?] per Philippum Melancthonem—? pro parte mea].

A page of 16th century ms., written on the reverse of the last leaf of Ein Sermō Thobie Fabri, [Leipzig, 1523], (for which see Faber, T.). The handwriting is clearly not Melancthon's, whose neat Latin script it does not resemble; and the matter can hardly be his. Both the ligatures and the forms of the letters point to a date not far from that of the Sermō itself. As it is a mere 'argument,' or outline, a full transcript is here given:

'[Title, as above.] | 1: Quod presbyterium non est nisi ministerium verbi [1: corin: 4: Et 1: corin: 1: Non est me] | dominus baptizare sed euangelizare ut ad Tit: 1: | Et Petri: vlt: Pascite gregem, Malach: | 2: habia sacerdotis custodiant scientiam. Ergo | qui non docent non sunt presbyteri, Nunc autem | non iudico me posse euangelium predicare quia dixit | Pau: ad Neophium [1: Timo: 3:] ne superbia elatus in | iudicia incidat.

2: Hodie est missas legere, nunc autem missare | est mera deceptio populi, quia aiunt presbyteri | se missare pro alijs aut offerre hostias, | Christus autem non iam offertur, & impijssimum est | eam, quod dicunt missam prodesse communi | ecclesie eciam sacrificanti presbytero non | prosit, Sicut soli baptisato prodest bap | tismus, ita missa soli ei qui utescitur.

3: Quia sunt ociosi homines Est autem preceptum ad | philipp: 4: laborare manibus. Et 2: ad Thess: 3: | Gene: 3: In sudore vultus tui comedas panem tuum. Et prebende passim fundate sunt per er | rores propter missas. Ergo qui talibus prebendis | viuunt peccant.

4: Preter missas eciam in alijs ceremonijs & riti | bus ecclesie exercent presbyteri deceptio | nes & fraudes. Ergo non est tutum presbyterari | Quia ab omni specie mala est abstinen- | dum propter sciam | dulum populi, [1: Thessa: 1:] huiusmodi sunt uigilie mortuorum, | sanctorum cultus beate marie uirginis ihm | fensidile, fundamentum cor plerumque sunt | presbyteri est causa voluptatis & veneris qui | illorum deus est ut inquit Paulus [philipp: 3:]

The bracketed references are inserted from the margin.

— [His copy of] Aesopi | Phrygis fabellae Grae | ce & Latine, cum alijs opusculis, quo- | rum index proxima refertur | pagella. | [Device.] | Basileae, in officina Ioannis Frobenij, | An. M. D. XXIII. At end: Basileae apud Ioannem | Frobenium mense | Februario. | An. M. D. XXIII.

18^h. pp. 364 + [2]. Wdct initials. Device on reverse of last leaf.

The 'alia opuscula' are: Gabriæ Græci fabellæ.—Ex Aphthonij exercitamentis de fabula: tum de formicis et cicadis.—De fabula ex imaginibus Philostrati [et aliorum libris].—Homeri Batrachomyomachia, hoc est, ranarum et murium pugna.—Museum de Ero et Leandro.—Agapetus de officio regis.—Hippocratis iurjurandum.—Galeomyomachia, hoc est, felium et murium pugna, tragedia Græca. Of all save the last a literal Latin transl. is printed parallel to the Greek original.

MELANCTHON'S COPY, with many autograph notes by him. The latter begin on p. 255, with the extract from Aphthonius, and are most numerous upon the Batrachomyomachia. On the blank page following the colophon he has neatly written a Latin epigram 'to Erasmus,' of which the following is a careful transcription:

'P M erasmo

Si phrygij discas diuinum carmen Erasme

Moribus & lingua, tum age cultus eris

Nomine quæ sophiæ se vendit turba superba

Ore sonat Tragico somnia ridicule

Ecce icis Phrygium dum condit seria, punctum

Omne tulit miscens, fulcibus [for dulcibus] vtilia

Phæaciis alius forsan laudauerit hortos

Hic mihi fragrantès phrix olet ecce rosas

Moribus humanis quam prosit tincta lepore

Fabulas si noris phrix tibi testis erit.'

A comparison shows that this is the same epigram as that printed among Melancthon's Carmina (in his Op., x, 494—following the Basel ed. of 1541) as addressed to Erasmus Edner; but with the lines transposed and with considerable variations in diction. On the reverse of the same leaf, above the device, is written this note:

‘Omnium maxime commendabitur Apologus, si condieris descriptione morum, vt in Leone et Lupo describendo, principem et Tyrannum depingas, bestiae tribuens, id quod ad homines proprie pertinebat P M’

And, beneath the device, the following:

‘Apologus vsitatus est vtendum, nisi quis felicissime et argute confingat nouos. Vetustas enim sicut aliis rebus, ita apologis quoque multum addit gratiae.’

A beginning of this last note had been made a little above, at the right of the device, where two or three of the first words (Vsitatus est vtendum), though partially erased, are still legible.

Attached to a fly-leaf is a letter from Dr. Bindseil (editor of the great collective ed. of Melancthon's Opera), dated Halle, 27 Jul. 1869, to Dr. Schöberlein, of Göttingen, from whose library this volume was bought, attesting the genuineness of the handwriting of these notes—of which he promises to make mention in the supplements to his edition. His transcription of them (in his letter) is, however, not free from errors.

Strauss and many others think Hutten the author of this remarkable dialogue; but both Böcking and Schade refuse to believe this. Written in 1521, it has nothing but the name in common with the earlier Karsthans, being an attempt to lead knight and peasant to join hands in support of both religious and social revolution, and ending in a formal programme which seems a prototype of the famous 'Twelve Articles' of the Peasant War of 1525.

This book, a rich collection of satires upon the Papacy, whose editorship is usually ascribed to the Italian exile Curio (Celio Secondo Curione), was rigorously suppressed by the Roman authorities and has been for centuries counted a treasure. Daniel Heinsius wrote in his copy, obtained after long search, the following epigram:

'Roma meos fratres igni dedit: unica Phœnix Vivo; aureisque veneo centum Heinsio.'

But the statement that the book was burned is now deemed apocryphal, and even its rarity is not so great as has been supposed.

Razzi, Frà Serafino. Della vita e morte di frà Girolamo Savonarola . . . libri tre.

A manuscript, 28x20, ff. [300], neatly written in what seems an Italian hand of the 17th century. The third book is devoted to the miracles of Savonarola. Appended, in the same hand, are (1) sundry documents tending to prove his sainthood, and (2) two of his poems, viz. Sopra la felicità di Firenze and Lode al crocifisso. Razzi's pref. to his readers was written in 1590.

... Più conosciuta assai è la biografia scritta dal P. Serafino Razzi, anch' esso frate di San Marco. Il suo lavoro veramente non è altro che una compilazione fatta sul Pico e sul Burlamachi; giacchè egli non era stato contemporaneo del Savonarola, nè aveva molto acume per far nuove indagini. Nondimeno potè discorrere con alcuni vecchi Fiorentini che lo avevano conosciuto, e fra questi con l'ottuagenario Lorenzo Violi, di cui lesse e compendiò il manoscritto delle Giornate; aveva raccolto e trascritto un numero grandissimo di apologetiche e d'altri lavori intorno alla vita ed alla dottrina del suo eroe. Le opere del Razzi si trovano manoscritte nella Magliabechiana, nella Riccardiana e nella Laurenziana.'—Villari.

That the author of this life of Savonarola could not have been Frà Pacifico Burlamacchi was pointed out by Ranke, and is now acknowledged by all scholars; but the work is still known by his name. That, on the other hand, it is not of aslate origin as Ranke suspected, nor compiled by Frà Timoteo Bottonio, whose revision of it is the only printed form, has been abundantly shown by Villari (in the Rivista Storica Italiana, 1884, and less fully in the pref. to the 2d ed. of his Storia di Savonarola), who has found at Florence the autograph Latin original of the author—a Dominican of San Marco, writing in 1524. - VITA DI SAVONAROLA.

A manuscript, 24×16, written on paper, in an Italian hand of the first half of the 16th century. 45 ff. (pp. 89) + 3 fly-leaves at end; the whole guarded by an illuminated vellum leaf from a 15th century commentary on the Civil Law, and bd. in mottled boards. n. t.-p. Fol. 1a begins: Incomincia la vita del Rdo P. fra Hieronimo da Ferrara dell'ordine dei frati predicatori, followed by the text, beginning Fu fra Hieronimo Savonarola per patria padouano, etc. On fol. 39 a the end of the text, closing: per el fuoco et per lagua sono passati al Regno de beati: done uian con christo per infinita secula: Amen. Thus far in Italian. At the head of fol. 39 b, in Latin, the caption: Miracula viri Dei Hieronimi, followed by a list, in the same handwriting as the Vita, but in Latin, of sixty-eight miracles, arranged in a mainly chronological order (the 1st beginning with the words Anno domini 1498, the 67th—the 68th has no date—with Anno domini 1523), and ending on fol. 45 a, with the words: omnia retulit fratri Angelo Bettino.

The author's name is nowhere given; and a comparison of this Vita with the two known early biographies of Savonarola—the Latin one by the younger Pico della Mirandola, and the Italian one long ascribed to Burlamacchi—shows that it is neither a translation of the one nor a copy of the other. In its general substance and order, indeed, it shows a striking agreement with the Burlamacchi; and that it lacks the prologue, breaks off at the death of Savonarola, is somewhat differently chaptered, and is throughout briefer in detail, might suggest only the possibility of its being an earlier form of that well-known biography—such an earlier form as Potthast and Ranke sought in vain—were it not for the constant and needless diversity in diction which this hypothesis leaves unexplained. A ready solution of this latter difficulty might be found in supposing the two to be independent translations from some common source; and the Florentine ms. discovered by Villari (see note under BURLAMACCHI above) at once suggests itself as the probable original. But it is clear from the citations he makes from it (in the 2d ed. of his Vita di Savonarola) that the Florentine ms. contains more than one passage (as, e. g., the famous scene at the death-bed of Lorenzo) that is wanting in ours.

As to the time of its composition, the latest date mentioned in the Vita itself is 'l'ultimo di di aprile nel .M.D.XX.' when 'il venerabil padre fra Bartho. di Piovanni da Ragugia' narrated to the monks of San Marco the story of Savonarola's prophetic sermons at Brescia. (The same episode appears in the printed Burlamacchi—where, however, the narrator's name is mutilated to 'F. Bartholomeo Ra . . .') That, like both the printed Burlamacchi and Villari's ms., it cites the life by Pico, is explained by the known existence of the latter in ms. as early as 1520. But the presence in it of the prophecy of a Pope Clement must, as Ranke points out and as Villari admits in the case of the two others, forbid the skeptical historian to assign it an earlier date than the accession of that Pope: 1523. None of the passages on which Ranke bases his ascription of the Burlamacchi to a still later date are to be found in this ms.

More light upon the identity of the author and upon the date of his writing is thrown by the appended list of Miracula. It is notable that these miracles are in no instance identical with those recounted at the end of the Pico and the Burlamacchi biographies. The descriptions, too, are briefer; the circumstances, for the most part, less startling; the scene, almost without exception, Florence or its immediate neighborhood. That the latest in chronological sequence occurred in 1523 is most significant; for the Pico and Burlamacchi lists show that there was no lack of subsequent marvels. Many are narrated as reported to this or to that friar; and of these friars one named with especial frequency—"frater Jacobus Siculus"—is well known to history as a friend of Savonarola and after him prior of San Marco. Most suggestive of all is the second of the list, which runs as follows (the ellipsis is the manuscript's): '2. Cum vir dei uisitaret infirmos inter ceteros venerabilem patrem fratrem librarium infirmum et interrogauit quinquam esset: quo cognito dixit nesciebam ipsum egrotare: et sanauit eum—ut mihi ipse retulit:'

And, in the seventh, we are told of the appearance of Savonarola to a monk, 'moribus, etate et scientia ornatus cuius ordinem et dignitatem t a c e o donec perficiatur opus sibi impositum.' All this seems to warrant the inference that the writer was probably himself a friar of San Marco, writing in or about the year 1524. That the present ms. is his autograph nothing indicates save these allusions to himself in the first person. There are few erasures or corrections, and these all in the hand of the text. A comparison of the handwriting with dated Lucchese mss. of 1515-1517 in the possession of the White Library shows the closest resemblance in general character.

The little ms. was picked up, in Feb. 1888, at a London book-shop (Dulaur's, in Soho Square). An Italian ms. note on the inside of the fore-cover, in a modern Italian hand, ascribing the work conjecturally (and erroneously) to Pico, shows that it had not been long in English hands. It deserves a careful collation with the mss. at Florence. It can hardly be of later date than that found by Villari; and, if identical in source, may well be an earlier vernacular draft.

Sotheby, Samuel Leigh. Unpublished documents, marginal notes and memoranda, in the autograph of Philip Melanchthon and of Martin Luther; with numerous fac-similes. Accompanied with observations upon the varieties of style in the handwriting of these illustrious reformers, by S. L. Sotheby.

London, 1840. 40×28. pp. 164+[55]. 34 plates. Sotheby, the author of this preposterous work, was a London book-auctioneer, to whom was consigned for sale the collection of the German bibliophile, Prof. Dr. Georg Kloss, of Frankfurt a. M., and who thought he discovered therein the private library of Melanchthon. For Dr. Kloss's letter, in which he wholly repudiates Sotheby's theory and shows its utter untenableness, see the Serapeum for 31 Dec. 1841. The collection was gathered volume by volume from the most diverse sources, and mostly from Catholic quarters where it was impossible that Melanchthon could have been. According to Dr. K., only three of the volumes contained genuine autographs of the Reformer. Not all the facsimiles given by Sotheby, however, are from this spurious source; and the book is its own best refutation.

Paris, 1879. 19h. pp. 22+60. The Latin Taxe sacre penitentie apostolice is printed parallel with its French transl.

For an original impression (ca. 1500) of this famous official tariff of the papal pardon-office, see Libellus taxarum; and, for another repr., Mendham, J., Life of Pius V (appendix). The disputes as to its authenticity seems now finally settled by the proofs adduced by the Dominican Denifle, sub-archivist of the Vatican, who in his Archiv für Literatur- u. Kirchengeschichte d. Mittelalters (iv, 3—Dec. 1888) not only describes a 15th century ms. copy of it in the Vatican library but prints from an older Vatican ms. an earlier and cruder, yet essentially similar, tariff of the year 1338.

Cum præfatione D. Wolfgangi Wissenburgii, Theologi Basiliensis. (Repr. in full, from the orig. ed. of 1555, in Gratius, O., Fasciculus, ii. 1690.)

For its contents, see under Gratius, as above. In his pref. Weissenburger seems to claim for himself the compilation of this work, saying only that he was aided by good men, whose names he will not mention; but Flacius, in the pref. (dated 1 May, 1556), to his Varia doctorum piorumque virorum de corrupto ecclesiæ statu poemata (which, had it been earlier added to the library, would also have claimed a place in this catalogue), hints that he was the collector of the Antilogia also, and it is perhaps on this basis that it is ascribed to him by Brunet, Græsse, and others. The Catalogus testium of Flacius was issued from the same press as the Antilogia and in the following year.

THE WHITE LIBRARY.

THE PROTESTANT REFORMATION AND ITS FORERUNNERS.

Supplement: PORTRAITS OF THE REFORMERS.

[NOTE.—Since the issue of the catalogue of this portion of the President White Library there has been added to the library a considerable collection of portraits of the Reformers. To these the present supplement is devoted. They are arranged in three portfolios, lettered respectively: ‘Portraits of Precursors of the Reformation,’ ‘Portraits of Luther and His Family,’ ‘Portraits of Luther’s Contemporaries and Successors. Miscellaneous Engravings.’ Within the portfolios the arrangement is as nearly as possible chronological. This order is also followed in the catalogue, the number of the title corresponding to the number upon the picture, and to its place in the portfolio. Both arrangement and catalogue are the work of Dr. Pallmann, of Frankfurt a. M., whose descriptions have been translated into English by Dr. F. M. Fling. A dash in place of the artist’s name marks a portrait as anonymous.]

PORTRAITO I.

Portraits of Precursors of the Reformation.

1. Hus, Jan. DESROCHERS, E. Engraving, signed: Gravé par E. Desrochers, à Paris; 15×10.5; bust in profile, facing to left; in cap and furred robe; form, an oval within a rectangle; French title: Jean Hus, né en Bohême, etc.; closely trimmed.

2. — BOLLINGER. Engraving, signed: Bollinger sc. 1820; size of portrait 9.2×7.3; size of card 19×12.3; bust, with cap, facing to left; form octagonal; title: Joh. Huss; below that: Zwickau bei Gebr. Schumann.

3. Hieronymus (Eng. Jerome) of Prague. HONDIUS, H. Engraving by Heinrich Hondius, the younger, probably one of a collection of portraits published in 1640 by Verheyden at the Hague; 17×11.8; half-length portrait, long hair and beard, cap on head, facing to right; inscription: Hieronymus Bohemus Pragensis, and four Latin verses: Et vultum pietas velavit et anxia virtus; in right hand upper corner, artist’s monogram; closely trimmed.

4. Ziska, Jan. — Pen drawing, lightly tinted, inscribed on the back, in red ink and partially illegible: Fernandus Jacobus St. . . . Anno 1688, Aetatis suae . . .; 25.3×18; three-quarter-length portrait, facing to the left; with pointed helmet, breast-plate, and scarf; the left hand on his sword and in the right a war flail; subscription: Der Hussiten Oberster Johannes Ziska; closely trimmed.

5. — Engraving. Unsigned, of the 17th century; 18×13.5; half-length portrait, facing a little to the right; form, an oval with Latin circumscription, within a rectangle; below, a two-line Latin inscription; trimmed to the edge of plate.

6. Wiclif, John. HONDIUS, H. Engraving by Heinrich Hondius, the elder; probably from the book, Praestantium aliquot Theologicorum effigies, Opera Jacobi Verheyden, Hagae comitis, 1602, fol.; 16.9×12; bust, facing to left, with cap; inscription: Joannes Wiclefus Anglus; then four Latin verses: Quanta fuit rabies, odijque potentia vestri, etc.; trimmed to the edge of the plate.

7. — MEYER, C., of Zürich. Etching, signed in lower right-hand corner: Con. Meyer fecit a° 1671; 22.3×14.3; half-length portrait, facing to right, with cap; the right hand holds a closed book, the left lies upon the breast; a German inscription in seven lines; closely trimmed.

8. — DESROCHERS, E. Engraving signed by E. Desrochers; 15×10.7; bust, facing to right, with cap; form, an oval within a rectangle; a French inscription in four lines; trimmed to edge of plate.

9. Nikolaus of the Flüe. — Engraving, unsigned, of the 17th century; 10.5×7.8; bust, facing a little to the right; inscription: Bruder Clavs von Vnder Walden; trimmed to the edge of the plate.

10. Erasmus, Desiderius. — Wdct. Unsigned woodcut of the school of Lucas Cranach; a reprint from: Holzschnitte aller deutschen Meister in den Originalplatten gesammelt von Hans Albrecht von Derschau, herausgegeben von Rudolf Zacharias Becker, Gotha, 1808–1812, gr. fol. (See Vol. II, Part B, No. 53); 30×18; full-length portrait, standing and facing a little to the left; in front a figure of Terminus; in upper left-hand corner an altar with an open book, surrounded by a wreath.

11. — JENICHEN, B. Engraving with the monogram B.I. at the end of the lateral inscription; not in Bartsch’s collection and not in Heller’s additions to Bartsch; 8.8×7; bust, facing to the left, with cap and furred robe; superscription:

12. — NEGGES, J. S. Mezzotint, from the painting by Hans Holbein, signed: Joh. Sim. Negges sc. et exc. A. V.; 36×22; half-length portrait facing to the left; before him, an open Bible; a seven-line Latin inscription; closely trimmed.

231. — Engraving unsigned; 27×17.6; Arbor Justitiae; Luther lies in the casket; from his breast grows a tree with the symbols of Christianity: Faith (the cross), Love (heart), Hope (anchor), and the Lamb; the tree is defended by Justice with sword and scales against Envy (Invidia) with a club in its hand, snakes in its hair and at its girdle; German Bible-verses on the casket and in the air; upon the casket, in a Latin chronogram, is the year 1709; trimmed to edge of plate.

232. — Engraving unsigned; 29×18.8; similar presentation as no. 231; instead of the German words Glaube, Liebe, Hoffnung, and Ergebung in the tree, Charitas, Fides, Spes, and Patientia are represented by human figures; trimmed to edge of plate.

233. — Engraving unsigned; 34×21; similar presentation to no. 232; superscription: Maledictio arboris Lutheri; angels endeavor to fell the tree, upon which are owls, spiders, and serpents; at the right, another angel is bringing wood to burn the writings of Luther; Religion (!) with crosier, cup, and key, holds the torch to the cut-up books; over the corpse of Luther creep serpents, lizards, and toads; twelve engraved German verses as superscription: Stölkt doch nur einmahl ein . . . Den Baum kkennt man an frichten; in the super-scription is the date 1709 in a chronogram; very closely trimmed.

234. — Engraving unsigned; 27×17.3; memorial sheet: Auf das grosse Reformation und Jubel Fest so in Berlin am 23. Sontage nach Trinitatis Anno 1717 gefeyert worden; at the left Christ drives the money changers from the temple; in the center stands Luther, by him a swan, extending the Bible to the clergy standing at the right with the Pope at their head; below, eight engraved verses, beginning: Der Heyland treibet fort die Käufer und Verkäufer, etc.; closely trimmed.

235. — Colored engraving unsigned, of the 18th century; 29.8×19.4; half-length portrait of Luther and three Salzburg teachers 'und Glaubensbrüder in Christo': Paulus Speratus, formerly cathedral preacher of Salzburg, Martin Lodiger of Gastein, and 'Georg Schärer von Salzfeld welcher 9 Jahr ein weltlicher Priester so dann ein Barßfisser Mönch worden u. nachgehends ein Evangelischer Prediger zu Radstadt im Ertz Bisthum Salzburg, altwo er um des Evangelii willen mit dem Schwerdt hingericht worden'; subscriptions; trimmed to edge of plate.

236. — (and others). Engraving unsigned; from Weislinger's Friss Vogel oder stirb; 12.9×16.3; Wiclif, Hus, Luther, Zwingli, Calvin, Melancthon, Bucer, and Beza stand before a cloth-covered table, upon which are the works of St. Augustine and Luther; in front of these, a bird, and under it the words: Friss Vogel oder stirb; a boy, standing near the table, points with his right hand to these words; with his left, he holds the open Bible; behind that a light, and behind the light a church upon a mountain; closely trimmed.

237. — and Tetzl, Johann. Wdct, unsigned, of the 18th century; size, without subscription, 14.5×13.1; full-length portraits of Luther and Tetzl, standing; subscription, printed: Doctor Luther wich kein Haar von den reinen Gottes Worte, Ob ihn gleich der Neid und Hass drohte mit dem Bann u. Morde Tetzl aber suchte nur Papst Leonem zu verführen Und die Leute in der Welt durch den Ablass zu betrügen; trimmed to edge of plate.

238. — Wdct, unsigned; same as no. 237; two-line subscription: Wind Lügen und Betrug war Tetzels sein Geschäfte, Das aber Luthers Geist auf Christi Wort gebracht; the following lines are cut off.

239. — Engraving, unsigned, of the 18th century, engraved from a picture of the 16th century; 14.6×9.2; Luther's arms (Todeswappen); on the shield, Luther in his casket; as helmet ornament, half-length figure of death with bow and arrows; as shield bearers, naked male and female figures with scrolls; closely trimmed.

240. — DUNKER. Engraving; in circle; of the end of the 18th century, by Philipp Heinrich Duncker or Balthasar Anton Dunker; signed below with a D; 6.8×6.5; two devils before a table, upon which a dish stands; subscription: Woll'n doch sehn obs bey Luthern nichts zu naschen giebt; see Nagler, Monogrammisten, vol. II, no. 911.

241. — Engraving, unsigned, published in Nürnberg by Friedrich Cämpe; 39×33.3; memorial tablet, dedicated to all the admirers of Dr. Martin Luther, at the celebration of the third Reformation-jubilee, October 31, 1817; in the center, a portrait of Luther surrounded by eight scenes from his life, with corresponding inscriptions.

PREFACE.

It is now more than four years since the first division of this catalogue—that on The Protestant Reformation and its Forerunners—was issued from the press. In the mean time the conditions attached to the gift of the President White Library to Cornell University have been fully complied with, and in the autumn of 1891 the library was transferred to its commodious and beautiful home in the new library building of the University.

The present division of the catalogue deals with the French Revolution, from the accession of Louis XVI, in 1774, to the overthrow of the Directory, at the 18th Brumaire (9 Nov. 1799). All that during this period had to do with the political history of France or of her colonies is counted within the scope of the catalogue. Of the contemporary politics of other lands, save as France was directly involved, the catalogue takes no account.

The gathering of this collection was begun by Mr. White while still a student in Yale College. From that time forward, there was no year but saw some increase. Many of its more important accessions it received during his various residences in Europe, especially in his stays at Paris. It was during such a sojourn that he bought from an old dealer on one of the Quais the great body of contemporary pamphlets—filling nearly five hundred classified and indexed cartons—which is still the bulkiest element of the collection. It was during such another visit, many years later, that most of the library's autograph documents and caricatures in this field were gathered. Much, of course, came to it at the breaking up of other private collections. That of the historian Buckle contributed a few volumes of rare interest. Much more was afforded by the rich libraries of Pochet-Deroche and of the Comte de Nadaillac, especially in the periodical literature of the Revolution. From that of Charles Brunet came ten cartons of carefully selected pamphlets illustrating the earliest years of the great struggle.

Though Mr. White's selection was catholic, his aim was from the first a practical one. For long he dreamed of attempting one day himself a history of the French Revolution. That hope has never seen other fruition in print than his little study on Paper-money inflation in France; but his university lectures on that epoch, to him as to his classes one of the most inspiring parts of his work as a teacher, gave him ample and ever-growing use for his library. Two things especially he sought in his choice of books: authorities and illustration—the most important critical works on the one hand, and on the other the contemporary publications which threw most light upon the spirit of the revolution or made its scenes most vivid to his students. Much as is lacking, therefore, there will be found wanting few of the histories of the Revolution, from Rabaut to Morse Stephens, which have seriously influenced the general knowledge or the general feeling regarding the great struggle. The greater documentary works, too, (as the Histoire parlementaire of Buchez and Roux, the Archives parlementaires of Mavidal and Laurent) and the great collections of contemporary memoirs (as those edited by Berville, Barrière, Lescure) will not be looked for in vain. Pictorial works, like the Tableaux historiques de la Révolution française, are of course not absent. Of the pamphlets and newspapers of the revolutionary time, those were most gladly acquired which filled a large place in the eyes of the contemporaries. It is perhaps in the latter—the revolutionary journals—that experts will count the collection most rich; yet not so much for the number of its titles as for their interest. Here are the sober and cautious Moniteur, the judicious Révolutions de Paris, the impersonal Feuille villageoise, not less than the journalistic mouthpieces of Mirabeau and of Robespierre, of Barère and of Camille Desmoulins, of Babeuf and of Richer-Sérisy. Here is the Ami du peuple of Marat, in all its varying forms, from its first issue to that which appeared on the morning after his execution; here, in rare completeness, the Père Duchêne of Lemaire and the viler Père Duchêne of Hébert; here the royalist banter and billingsgate of the Actes des Apôtres, the Petit-Gautier, the Ami du roi, the republican rhetoric of the sundry "Journaux des Jacobins," the brutal terseness of the Bulletin du tribunal criminel and the Liste générale des conspirateurs, the placards and laws of the Bulletin de la Convention—all these, with much more of their sort. Of the speeches of the revolutionary era, the most notable series in the collection is doubtless that relating to the trial of the king (pp. 95-104). In the local history of the Revolution noteworthy is the library's wealth on the struggle in the American colony of Saint-Domingue—in part a fruit of Mr. White's sojourn in that island as a commissioner of the United States thither in 1871. For the individual rarities of the collection, too numerous for mention here, the curious must be referred to the catalogue itself.

Much, of course, that is of value to the student of the French Revolution—the histories of Europe, of France, of Paris and the provinces, and, in general, whatever treats the Revolution as but a part of a larger whole—can have no place in this catalogue. Thus, too, the library's considerable collections on the France of Louis XV and on the 18th-century philosophers have no recognition here. As an introduction to this wider literature, as well as to the narrower field covered by the catalogue, the student will find of especial interest the Abridged Bibliography of the French Revolution, by Mr. White himself; appended to Morris's little book on The French Revolution, in the 'Epochs of History' series. All the books named in this are, as might be expected, in the President White Library.

The cataloguing of the collection was begun, nearly a decade and a half ago, by the present librarian. Interrupted, while his task was still but a third done, by pressure of other duties, the work, though taken up here and there by other hands under his direction, made no substantial progress until, in 1890, Mr. William H. Hudson (now Associate Professor of English in the Stanford University) took it in hand and gave to its service a fruitful year, nearly completing its preparation for the printer. On his relinquishment of it, it fell into the hands of Mr. Alexis Babine, on whom has devolved the heaviest of the labor of seeing it through the press. Whatever of merit the catalogue may be found to have must be ascribed in great part to these two keen-sighted and painstaking scholars.

The bibliographical aids most used in the preparation of the catalogue have been Barbier's Dictionnaire des ouvrages anonymes (3^e éd., Paris, 1872-79), Quérard's Supercherries littéraires dévoilées (2^e éd., Paris, 1869-70), Deschiens' Bibliographie des journaux (Paris, 1829), Hatin's Histoire de la presse en France (Paris, 1859-61), and the French National Library's Catalogue de l'histoire de France (Paris, 1855-79). Not too late to be of service came the opening volumes of the two exhaustive works now in progress of publication by the city of Paris, Tourneux's Bibliographie de l'histoire de Paris pendant la révolution française (vol. i, Paris, 1890) and Tuetey's Répertoire des sources manuscrites de l'histoire de Paris pendant la révolution française (vols. i, ii, Paris, 1890-92). Much use has also been made of the catalogues of private collections, such as the La Bédoyère, the Pochet-Deroche, and the Nadaillac. In the spelling of names the catalogue follows in general the Biographie universelle of Michaud (Paris, nouv. éd., 1854-65); but for those of the members of the Convention it has been glad to avail itself of the more accurate list, Les Conventionnels (Paris, 1889), compiled by Guiffrey for the Société de l'Histoire de la Révolution française.

Like its predecessor, the present division is an author-catalogue, with subject-entries under persons and places. The speeches and motions of deliberative bodies are entered both under the names of their authors and under that of the assembly. Clubs appear under the name of their town, except those of Paris, which are entered under their own titles. The several parlements of France will be found under the names of the cities where they sat.

Titles are given with scrupulous fidelity as to spelling, though not always in full. When an orthographic peculiarity is such as to suggest a printer's error, a "sic" has been inserted for the reader's assurance. There has been little attempt to retain the chaotic capitalization and punctuation; accents have been freely supplied where missing; and, in defiance of French usage, the article has for economy's sake been omitted from the dates at the end of titles. On the other hand, in the interest of the hurried student, there has been appended to every revolutionary date its Gregorian equivalent. Both in the names and in the notes French words and phrases are freely used in place of English ones, in the belief that accuracy and clearness are worth seeking even at the cost of pedantry, and that in any case a catalogue of French books can be of little use to one who does not read French.

The body of the catalogue includes only the titles of printed books. But there are appended (pp. 289-296) descriptive lists of the Autograph Documents and Letters, of the Caricatures, Portraits, etc., and of the Paper Money of the Revolution in the library's possession.

As in the preceding division, there has been included in the catalogue what little else the University Library possesses in its field. These books are marked by a C at the end of the title. D and d at the end of titles mean that, as the University has an exact or a virtual duplicate of the copy described, the latter was retained by Mr. White.

That in a piece of work dragging through so many years and shared in by so many hands there should have arisen variations of usage can hardly be surprising. No care has succeeded in working these wholly out. To such a variation was due the necessity of throwing together under the general title of Lois, instead of among the acts of the several legislative bodies, the laws here catalogued. To a like difference of understanding as to the inclusion of what related to the colonies of France during the Revolution is due in large part the extent of the Addenda (pp. 297-318).

SIZES OF BOOKS.

The disuse of fixed sizes of paper consequent on the improvement of the printing-press has long made useless and well nigh impracticable the old nomenclature for the forms of books. In view of this, the American Library Association has urged its entire abandonment and the substitution of an exact metric measurement of each volume. That suggestion is here adopted. Where the book is of the usual shape (the width about three-fifths the height—as in what are currently called ‘octavos’), the height alone is given (as ‘23^h’); where otherwise, both height and width, the height preceding (as ‘23×20’). Fractional centimeters are reckoned as whole ones. These measurements may, for the most part, be readily translated into the old nomenclature (as now used by American libraries) by means of the following L'accusateur public. Vol. i, nos. 1-35; vol. ii, no. 1.

[Paris, 1794-99.] 20^h. 2 v. Plates. Edited by Richer-Sérisy. None of the nos. are dated, but it is clear from their content that the earliest were published in Dec. 1794. No no. 13 was ever issued. The single no. of vol. ii seems unknown to the bibliographers. From internal evidence it is clear that it appeared in May 1799. In a note at the end the editor declares that il paraitra de temps en temps des numéros plus ou moins longs, selon l'importance des matières, et selon la possibilité de faire imprimer des vérités utiles dans ces temps de liberté. Added are Richer-Sérisy au Directoire and Conspiration royale au Directoire.

Signed by Achard de Bonvouloir and three others.

Acte de contrition de MM. les gardes du corps de Louis XVI, ou les cartes rebattues.

Londres, 1789. 20^h. pp. 24. A fictitious document.

Les Actes des Apôtres.

Paris, [1789-91]. 17^h. 198 nos. (called chapters). 14 v. in 7. Plates. Edited by Peltier, Rivarol, Champcenetz, Mirabeau-Tonneau, Suleau, Bergasse, Lauraguais, Montlosier, and others. It first appeared in Nov. 1789, and ceased in Oct. 1791. Pellet describes it bibliographically thus:

"La collection se compose de 311 numéros, plus six petits paquets, soit 317 numéros, sans compter vingt ou vingt-cinq brochures accessoltes non cataloguées, introductions, épilogues ou suppléments. Les Actes paraissaient en moyenne une fois tous les deux jours . . . Les Actes ne sont pas en réalité un journal, mais bien une réunion de brochures sans aucun lien entre elles . . . Quant au nombre de pages, il varie entre 8, 12, 16, 24, 32, 40, 60 et plus. Quelquefois une volumineuse brochure est envoyée aux abonnés et porte, sur sa couverture, deux ou trois numéros suivant son étendue."

The present copy seems to differ from those described by the bibliographers in that it is divided not only into versions and chapters, but into volumes—two to each version. With this exception and with some irregularities of binding, it corresponds to the descriptions of Hatin and Pellet, but lacks (1) the prospectus and engraving of version 1, (2) the engravings of versions 4-7, and (3) all after no. 198 (version 7).

L'ami du roi, des François, de l'ordre et surtout de la vérité; par les continuateurs de Fréron. 1 juin 1790-10 août 1792.

Paris, 1790-92. 27×21. Before the end of its first three months, the editors of this journal had quarreled with each other and with their printer; and, beginning with 1 Sept. 1790, there appeared daily three rival issues of the Ami du roi. One, edited by the abbé Royou, retained the old title and numeration, but dropped the consecutive pagination. Another, under the editorship of Montjoie, continued the old numeration and pagination, but added to the title, in place of the phrase par les continuateurs de Fréron, the words par M. Montjoie, fondateur et rédacteur de ce journal, depuis le 1er juin 1790. A third, unchanged in form, was published by the printer Crapart. The journal of Royou, which, as the most violent, became the most famous of the three, flourished until the arrest and death of its editor, its last issue being that of 4 May 1792. That of Montjoie, which seems to have had the best right to the title, lived until 10 Aug. 1792, ceasing with the issue of that date. The separate series of the printer Crapart lasted only till 6 Nov. 1790, when he merged it in that of Montjoie, which thenceforward restores to its title the par les continuateurs de Fréron, adding sous la direction de M. Montjoie, etc., and is issued from the press of Crapart. As a supplement and introduction to his journal, Montjoie published, in 1791-92, a Histoire de la révolution de France, et de l'Assemblée nationale, pour former, avec le journal intitulé l'Ami du Roi, . . . un corps complet d'histoire du temps actuel. Excellent bibliographical accounts of the Ami du roi may be found in Gallois and in Hatin; Deschiens is less accurate.

In the present set, which is that of the Comte de Nadaillac, the first quarter-year of the journal is complete; the series of Royou lacks only the no. for 30 June 1791; that of Montjoie wants the issues for 5 Oct., 24 Oct., 3 Nov., 6-9 Nov., and 11 Nov. 1791 (nos. 279, 298, 308, 311-314, 316); the separate series of Crapart is wholly unrepresented; and the supplementary Histoire de la révolution of Montjoie is complete (prospectus, five parts, and table of chapters).

Tribunal criminel.

[No distinction is here made between the four successive tribunals so named—known by the dates of their creation as those of 17 août 1792, 10 mars 1793, 23 thermidor an 2, and 8 nivôse an 3. It was not until 29 Oct. 1793 that the Convention formally added the title of "revolutionary," by which the body had long been currently known, and the tribunal criminel extraordinaire became officially the tribunal criminel révolutionnaire.]

— — Réflexions du tribunal du juré d'accusation sur quelques inculpations faites au tribunal du juré de jugement des 17 août et 11 sept. derniers [1792].

n. t.-p. [Paris, 1792.] 22h. pp. 16. Signed by Loyseau, Fouquier-Tinville, and others.

— Ordonnance rendue par le président du tribunal, qui, sur la déclaration du juré de jugement, acquitte G. Lamellière fils, et D. Faucheur; 8e du 2e mois de l'an 2 [29 Oct. 1793].

n. t.-p. [Paris, 1793.] 24×19. pp. 3.

— Ordonnance rendue par le président du tribunal, qui, sur la déclaration du jury de jugement, acquitte d'accusation J. F. Poyard et N. Gustine, et ordonne qu'ils seront mis sur-le-champ en liberté; 4 thermidor an 2 [22 July 1794].

n. t.-p. [Paris, 1794.] 23×19. pp. 2.

— Ordonnance rendue par le président du tribunal, qui, sur la déclaration du jury de jugement, déclare n'y avoir lieu à accusation contre Alexis Lacroix, et ordonne qu'il sera sur-le-champ mis en liberté; 1 germinal an 3 [21 March 1795].

n. t.-p. [Paris, 1795.] 24×19. pp. 3.

— BULLETIN du tribunal criminel établi par la loi du 17 août 1792, pour juger les conspirateurs, et autres criminels du département de Paris, en vertu d'un décret du 11 septembre dernier. 25 août-4 déc. 1792.

Paris, 1792. 26×21. pp. 4+136 [236] +3; i. e., four preliminary pages, 58 nos. of the Bulletin, and a table des matières. The editors are said to have been Bonnemain, Clément (the publisher), and others. Wrongly lettered Bulletin du tribunal criminel, 3.

— BULLETIN du tribunal criminel établi par la loi du 10 mars 1793, pour juger sans appel, les conspirateurs.

Paris, 1793-1794. 26×21. pp. [2]+4+404+[2]; [2]+400; 44; [4]+400; [4]+8; 400; 84. 7 parts, bd. in 5 vols. A continuation of the foregoing. The issues are not dated, but they cover the sessions of the tribunal from 6 Apr. 1793 to 17 Dec. (27 frimaire) 1794. Parts 1, 2, 4, and 6 have each a hundred nos.; pt. 3 has but eleven, and pt. 5 but two, no more of either having been printed; while part 7 breaks off abruptly with no. 21—lacking, according to the Nadaillac catalogue, only a supplement to no. 19, which should come at the end. Pts. 1, 2, 4, and 5 have t.-pp.; and pt. 1 an index at end. In pt. 2 is inserted a four-page supplement to no. 27, not included in the pagination. The caption, from the first, is Bulletin du tribunal criminel révolutionnaire, which is changed in pts. 3-5 (both in caption and t.-pp.) to Bulletin du tribunal révolutionnaire, but is resumed in pts. 6 and 7. No. 11 of pt. 3 and no. 21 of pt. 7 seem in this copy to be fac-similes. The vols. are wrongly lettered 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, pts. 3 and 4 being in vol. 4, pts. 5 and 6 in vol. 5, and pt. 7 in vol. 6, while vol. 4 holds the earlier Bulletin described above.

— LISTE générale et très-exacte des noms, âges, qualités et demeures de tous les conspirateurs qui ont été condamnés à mort par le tribunal révolutionnaire établi à Paris par la loi du 17 août 1792, et par le second tribunal établi à Paris par la loi du 10 mars 1793, pour juger tous les ennemis de la patrie.

Paris, an 2 [1793-4]. 22h. 10 nos. (Nos. 1 to 9, of 36 pages each, and "supplément au No. IX," of pp. 18+[1]). They are undated, but cover the condemnations from 26 août 1792 to 28 thermidor an 2 (15 Aug. 1794). A second copy lacks nos. 1, 2, and 4.

— LISTE générale et très-exacte de tous les condamnés à mort par le tribunal révolutionnaire établi à Paris depuis le commencement de la révolution jusqu'à ce jour, contenant leurs noms, prénoms, âges, qualités et demeures, lieux de leurs naissances et de leur départements.

Paris, an 3 [1794]. 21h. No. 2 only (pp. 32). The list is identical with that of no. 2 of the series described above; but, beside sundry minor differences of wording, there is lacking from the later impression the epigraph on the t.-p. and the Avis aux citoyens on its reverse.

"Le n° 173 de la Correspondance paraît manquer. C'est une erreur d'impression; les dates sont exactement suivies. L'ordre numérique de la Correspondance saute de 228 à 292. C'est également une erreur; il n'y a point de lacune dans les dates."—Deschiens. No. 25 of the débats retains wrongly the number (and the date) of no. 24. There are two nos. 449 (not 249, as says Deschiens): one for 16 juillet, the other for 17 juillet 1793. This journal, like the quite different Journal des amis de la constitution of Choderlos de la Clos, is often known as the Journal des Jacobins.

Journal des débats et des décrets. Nos. 908-936; germinal an 3 [21 March-19 April 1795].

n. t.-p. [Paris, 1795.] 20h. pp. 428.

Journal des séances du tribunal de la haute cour de justice établie à Vendôme et recueil [sic] de pièces relatives à la conspiration imputée à Babœuf, Drouet et coaccusés; par J. B. C. Morard. [1^{er} envoi. Seconde partie.]

Herve, etc., 1785-92. 21h. 41 v. in 40. Vols. i and ii, 1785, are bound together. In five groups, each with its own numeration, as follows: 1785-87, 13 v.; 1788, 6 v.; 1789, 6 v., with supplement; 1790, 4 v.; 1791-92, 11 v. Edited by Lebrun (Toudu), J. J. Smits, and others. "Ce journal contient de nombreux et intéressants renseignements sur les révolutions brabançonne, légeoise et française. C'est une véritable histoire du temps."

Journal général de la cour et de la ville, connu sous le nom du Petit-Gautier, commencé le 16 septembre 1789, poursuivi sans interruption jusqu'à la chute du trône français, 10 août 1792, et repris en 1797, au nombre de 108 nos.

Paris, 1780-97. 20h. 25 v. Edited by G. M. A. Brune and Gautier. The above title, as well as the note bibliographique, the notice bibliographique, and the supplément à la notice bibliographique, which follow it in the present copy, is of course of later date than the journal itself, which bore at first the title of Magasin historique, ou Journal général, became simply Journal général with the third no., and not till its sixth issue added the de la cour et de la ville. The present copy is from the Nadailac collection, and is thus described in its catalogue: "Cet exemplaire provient de la vente Pochet-Deroche. C'est un des plus complets que l'on connaisse, celui de M. de La Bédoyère pour la Reprise ne comprenait que 107 numéros au lieu de 108. A cet exemplaire on a ajouté l'édition des colporteurs publiée de janvier 1790 au 1^{er} mars 1792, complétée par l'édition des abonnés du 15 sept. 1789 au 4 janv. 1790, et y compris la partie publiée par Brune seul (numéros 89 à 114). Les numéros suivants manquent à cette dernière édition. Numéros 84, 94 à 98, 100 et 101 de l'année 1789. De l'année 1791, 17, 19, 20 et 30 mars; 8, 9, 18, 22, 24, 25, 28 et 29 avril; 1er, 3, 8, 10, 11 et 25 mai; 15, 23, 25 juin; 6, 7, 23 et 25 juillet; et les suppléments. On sait que les numéros des colporteurs sont très-rare. On n'en connaît pas de collections complètes." A prospectus du Journal de la cour et de la ville, par M. G, is inserted at the beginning.

The livre rouge, or red book: being a list of secret pensions, paid out of the public treasure of France; and containing characters of the persons pensioned, anecdotes of their lives, an account of their services, and observations tending to shew the reasons for which the pensions were granted. Transl. from the 8th Paris edition.

London, 1790. 22^h. pp. 163. Printed in red. This Eng. transl., which seems the work of the same printer as the French orig., described above, is complete, and appears to comprise 6 livraisons of the original, the last of them bearing in the transl. the title The livre rouge explained; or, A key to the villainy of ministers, the abuse of the royal kindness and favour, the irregularities of the princes, the puerilities of the court, &c. &c.

"On assure que ces lettres sont du bailli de Mirabeau, oncle du comte; on y trouve en effet trop de citations pour croire qu'elles aient pu être composées à la Bastille. Voyez le Domine salvum fac regem, par M. Peltier. Etienne Dumont qui s'est complu à contester à Mirabeau la plus grande partie de ses ouvrages, attribue celui-ci à E. Clavière. Mirabeau, sur le titre de l'ouvrage, semble bien en réclamer la paternité. Ouvrage posthume, puisque le prisonnier d'État n'existait plus, Mirabeau ayant été mis en liberté en 1780; composé en 1778, époque du séjour forcé de Mirabeau au donjon de Vincennes; d'ailleurs on trouve en tête de la seconde partie le témoignage de sa reconnaissance pour M. Le Noir, qu'il déclare n'être en rien dans les iniquités qu'il est obligé de dévoiler."—Barbier, Anonymes, ii, 1247.

"Il paraît y avoir eu, dès 1782, deux éditions du livre sur les Lettres de cachet et les Prisons d'État. Le titre des deux éditions est identique, mais l'impression est différente. La première est en deux volumes: un pour chaque partie de l'ouvrage. On n'en retrouve que la première partie, la seconde ayant dû être détruite lors de la saisie effectuée par l'autorité prussienne, à la requête du gouvernement français, dans les magasins de Fauche, à Neuchâtel."—Loménie, Les Mirabeau, v, 461.

Le moniteur universel.

Paris, 1789-99. 46X30. 21 v. (The library's set of the Moniteur is complete to the end of 1867; but it is deemed needless to describe here more than its revolutionary portion.) The original title of the journal was Gazette nationale, ou le moniteur universel, and it was not till 1811 that the first phrase was dropped; but almost from the first it was currently known as the Moniteur.

"Le 1er numéro du Moniteur parut le 24 novembre 1789, c'est-à-dire près de sept mois après l'ouverture des États-généraux. Il y avait là, pour une pareille publication, une lacune qu'il importait de combler. Elle le fut en l'an IV, par une Introduction au Moniteur imprimée dans le même format. Cet ouvrage important, dû à la plume de Thuau-Grandville, commence par un abrégé historique des premières formes du gouvernement de la France, de ses anciennes assemblées politiques, de ses États-généraux, des assemblées des notables de 1787 et 1788; il est accompagné d'une notice des écrits les plus influents qui ont précédé la Révolution, et il se termine par un recueil de Pièces justificatives contenant les procès-verbaux des séances des électeurs de Paris et autres actes relatifs aux événements des 13 et 14 juillet, 5 et 6 octobre 1789.—Les trente-huit premiers numéros du Moniteur, qui avaient paru depuis le 24 novembre jusqu'à la fin de l'année, ne contenaient qu'une simple notice des États-généraux et de l'Assemblée constituante, d'une très-courte étendue, souvent très-imparfaite. On les réimprima dans l'Introduction, avec des changements de rédaction, et sous la forme dramatique adoptée en 1790 pour les séances, en sorte qu'il faut regarder comme inutiles les numéros de la première édition.—L'Introduction contient donc, indépendamment des objets qu'on vient d'énumérer, toute l'année 1789, à partir du 1er numéro, portant la date du 5 mai, première séance de l'Assemblée constituante, jusqu'au n° 131, daté du 31 décembre."—Hatin, La presse en France, v, 113.

The first vol. of the present set is formed by the Introduction just described, and does not include the Moniteur's original issues for 1789.

Père Duchêne, or Duchesne (pseud.). L'ami des soldats; par l'auteur des Lettres bougrement patriotiques [A. F. Lemaire].—Suite de l'ami des soldats.

n. t.-p. [Paris, 1790.] 21h. pp. 16. Two issues paged continuously. The latter is signed le véritable Père Duchêne. These were published by Lemaire between the ninth and the tenth of his letters.

— La grande joie du Père Duchesne, au sujet de l'ordre qu'il reçut de Versailles d'aller refaire les fourneaux du roi, etc.

Paris, [18-]. 22^h. pp. 11. "Le manuscrit original a été trouvé dans les papiers de J. B. Pruvost, ancien principal du Collège de Hesdin, Pas-de-Calais."

— Je suis le véritable père Duchesne, foutre. [Par J. R. Hébert.]

[Paris, 1790-94.] 21^h. 306 nos. The title given above is the only one common to the successive issues, but is really only the inscription beneath the title-woodcut. There follows it the special title of each number—La grande colère du Père Duchêne, La grande joie, etc., etc.—changing with every issue. The collection is that of Pochet-Deroche, from whose catalogue the subjoined description is taken:

"La 1^{re} série se compose de 30 numéros non numérotés. Le 1^{er} numéro a pour titre A BAS LES CLOCHES ou grande découverte du Père Duchesne pour faire de la monnaie et des canons. Cette 1^{re} série très rare, est complète. La 2^e comprend 355 numéros numérotés. Il manque à cette série environ 100 numéros. On a ajouté à cet exemplaire les 9 numéros d'un nouveau Père Duchesne, en concurrence avec celui d'Hébert, avec la même vignette et des fourneaux. Imprimés par la Voe Errard et Tremblay. Et les numéros 138, 139, 142, 146, 147, 148, 149, 150 et 151 publiés par Tremblay lorsque Hébert s'empara du journal dont il n'était que le rédacteur. Tous ces numéros sont signés Tremblay. Ces deux dernières suites ajoutées sont complètes et conformes à la description qu'en a donnée M. Ch. Brunet. Le journal d'Hébert est si rare aujourd'hui qu'on ne connaît pas un seul exemplaire complet, même des 355 numéros chiffrés, et qu'il est même difficile de s'en procurer des numéros isolés. M. La Bédoyère n'a jamais pu compléter son exemplaire. (Hatin)."

The nos. lacking from the 2d series are 24, 26, 46, 47, 49-53, 56, 61, 63, 64, 69, 71, 72, 75, 76, 78, 82-86, 88-92, 94-98, 100, 101, 103, 105-110, 113, 127, 129, 132, 137-141, 144, 146, 147, 150, 151, 153, 156, 157, 159-162, 164-167, 169-180, 182, 185, 189, 191-199, 201, 203, 206, 208, 209, 211, 313. There are two distinct issues numbered 16; of which that entitled Les renouvellements de colère du Père Duchesne is perhaps spurious. Of no. 229 there is a duplicate. One issue, unnumbered, entitled Les adieux du Père Duchêne aux régimens de ligne qui partent de Paris pour aller sur les frontières [1792], and signed "Tremblay," seems to belong to none of the series above mentioned.

— Lettre[s] bougrement patriotique[s] du véritable Père Duchêne. [Par A. F. Lemaire.] Nos. 1-400.

[Paris, 1790-92.] 22^h. 400 nos in 6 cartons.

"This was the first journal that appeared under the name of Père Duchêne. Hébert's publication was soon after commenced in opposition to it, and the name was subsequently employed by various writers of different parties. Les vitres cassées was originally published as a separate pamphlet, but was prefixed to the collected edition of the letters as a kind of preface. Lemaire published a continuation of his letters under the title of La trompette du père Duchêne."—BRITISH MUSEUM CATALOGUE.

This copy is from the Pochet-Deroche collection, and is complete. Of the first no. there are here three distinct impressions: the first, entitled Lettre, etc., lacking the Maltese crosses at the end; the second, with title unchanged but adding the crosses; the third, entitled Première lettre, etc., quatrième édition, and with a note which shows it to have been printed after the Ami des soldats. Of the third letter there are also two forms, one bearing the title Achetez-ça pour deux sous, vous rirez pour quatre.

"On a ajouté à cet exempl. l'AMI DES SOLDATS, 2 numéros.—LES VITRES CASSÉES, par le même.—Remontrances bougrement patriotiques du véritable père Duchêne.—Réponse de Brise-fer, Dragon, au père Duchêne."—Pochet-Deroche Catalogue.

— La trompette du Père Duchêne, pour servir de suite aux quatre cents lettres bougrement patriotiques. [Par A. F. Lemaire.] Nos. 1-147.

[Paris, 1792-93.] 20^h. 147 nos. The series is believed complete. At the end of the last issue (No. 147) is written, in a contemporary hand, this note: "Le bougre d'auteur a cessé à ce n^o, s'étant fait foutre en prison."

Babié de Bercey and Sulpice Imbert, comte de La Platière, the former of whom thus explained the matter to the bibliographer Beuchot: "J'étais un jour chez Sulpice de La Platière; nous cherchions, ensemble le titre ou le sujet d'un livre. L'idée nous vint de faire des 'Lettres de Louis XVI'; et sur le champ nous nous mîmes à l'œuvre. Tous les matins je me rendais chez Sulpice de La Platière, et là, en prenant du thé, et après l'avoir pris, nous fabriquions quelques lettres; quand nous en eûmes une quantité suffisante, nous vendîmes notre travail à M. L. . . . , qui nous en donna cent louis, que mon collaborateur partagea avec moi." The book was reprinted almost bodily, in 1817, by the Paris printer Gide under the title Louis XVI peint par lui-même. In defending himself Gide alleged that the correspondence was bought by Miss Williams from no less a person than Barère. Taine, pour retrouver le nom de l'auteur. Suivant M. Lot, le secret de l'énigme devait se trouver dans les archives d'Arras ou d'Amiens, où l'auteur avait résidé et subi un emprisonnement. Toutefois ses investigations, non plus que celles de M. Taine, n'avaient pas abouti, et rien dans

AUTOGRAPH DOCUMENTS AND LETTERS.

Aigoin, François Victor. See France—Trésorerie nationale.

Artois, Charles Philippe (de Bourbon), comte d', afterwards Charles X of France. [The Drouet de Santerre manuscripts.]

This collection of papers, thus named from the two treasurers of the Comte d'Artois in whose custody they seem originally to have been, is made up of private accounts of this last of the Bourbon kings from the setting up of his princely household in 1773 to his flight from his kingdom in 1830, and is very voluminous. A series of vellum documents relating chiefly to his domains runs back, indeed, far into the 16th century; and there is also in the collection a considerable body of letters (mostly appeals for money) addressed to his heir, the Duc de Bordeaux, better known since as the Comte de Chambord. But in the whole mass, filling over a score of thick portfolios, there is little bearing directly on the events of the period covered by the present catalogue. From the self-banishment of the prince in July 1789, and especially from the suppression of his household in 1792, to his return from exile in 1814, the papers grow fewer. The only signed documents of this period are his rescripts from Turin, of 6 Sept. and 21 Dec. 1789, providing for the management of his estates in his absence. A multitude of earlier and later documents bear his autograph signature; but the only autograph letter is a hasty note to M. de Verdun, his surintendant. As showing the details of that reckless extravagance by which Charles Philippe did perhaps more than any other to hasten the financial catastrophe of France, the whole collection has a value for the history of the revolution.

Augereau, duc de Castiglione, maréchal. [Letter to the commissary of war Bertaud, urging the need of supplies, etc.]

29^h. p. 1 (address on back). Dated at "Castillon D'Estieriere" [Castiglione] 17 thermidor an 4 [4 Aug. 1796], and signed Augereau. It was the day after the battle of Lonato. "That day," wrote Monthonal at St. Helena, prompted by Napoleon, "was the most brilliant of Augereau's life." It was in recognition of his services at this time that he was later made Duc de Castiglione.

Babeuf, François Noel, dit Caius Gracchus. [Letter to A. Lamy.]

22×18. pp. 3 (address on back). Autograph letter, dated at Roze, 21 Feb. 1791, and signed Babeuf, Rédacteur du Correspondant Picard. About his cadastre perpétuel. Bd. in vol. lettered G. Babeuf, Journal de la haute cour de justice.

Barbeau du Barran, Joseph Nicolas. See France—Convention nationale—Comité de sûreté générale.

Barère de Vieuzac, Bertrand. See France—Convention nationale—Comité de salut public.

Berthier, Louis Alexandre, prince de Wagram et de Neufchâtel, duc de Valengin, maréchal. [Passe-port pour] le citoyen Réal, attaché à l'État Major du Génie, de l'Armée d'Angleterre. Partant de Paris pour se rendre à Toulon.

38^h. p. 1. Dated at Paris, an 6 (without day). Signed Alex. Berthier. Interesting is the engraved letter-head, displaying the victories of the army of Italy.

Billaud-Varenne, Jacques Nicolas. See France—Convention nationale—Comité de salut public.

Breteuil, Louis Auguste le Tonnelier, baron de. [Letter to the Maréchal de Ségur.]

20×16. pp. 2. Dated "à Chalons sur Marne ce 15 juin 1784." Autograph letter, signed Breteuil D. De Tonnerre. Asking a lettre de cachet for one Claudine Brossard. With a memorandum by Ségur. In vol. lettered Lettres de cachet. Another signature of Breteuil may be found in the Drouet de Santerre mss.

Calonne, Charles Alexandre de. [Letter to Beaumarchais.]

18×16. p. 1. Autograph letter, signed De Calonne. Dated only "vendredi matin." A mere letter of courtesy.

Two earlier letters of Calonne's, written in 1770 and 1773, while he was still intendant at Metz, may be found in the vol.

lettered Lettres de cachet, but do not fall within the scope of this catalogue.

Carnot, Lazare Nicolas Marguerite, comte. See France—Convention nationale—Comité de salut public.

Chaumette, Pierre Gaspard, dit Anaxagoras. [Letter of the procureur de la commune of Paris to the citizen Garret, enclosing a copy of a judgment of the tribunal de police municipale which he is to execute.]

24×18. pp. 4. Dated 11 May 1793. Signed Chaumette. Added to the letter is a page of comment by Garret, with his signature.

Collot d'Herbois, Jean Marie. See France—Convention nationale—Comité de salut public.

Courtois, Edme Bonaventure. [Common-place books.]

Seven little manuscript volumes (16^h to 19^h) of extracts and commonplaces, compiled between 1772 and 1809, and said to be in the handwriting of Courtois. There is in them almost nothing touching the revolution, and they have, at best, only a biographical value. Their ascription to Courtois rests on the word of a catalogue, for they are nowhere signed and the hand has not been verified.

Gardes françaises, Société populaire des. [Carte] pour le citoyen Drieu.

Elliptical card, 5×6, with cord for attachment to dress. On obverse, the name and symbols of the club; on reverse, the signatures of Drieu and of Tranchefort, Lalozière, and Alibert as president, secretary, and treasurer. Numbered no. 164.

Garin, Marc, adjudant général. [Letters.]

18 autograph letters, on quarto paper, addressed mainly to his father, Hyacinthe Garin, commissaire du gouvernement près le tribunal de 1^{re} instance, at Chambéry. They are scattered through the years 1793–1809 and written from Madrid, Lyons, Paris, and sundry Italian cities. Their historical value is slight. With them are a few letters and papers of other members of the family, relating to business matters.

Kleber, Jean Baptiste, général. [Requisition for supplies, drawn by Dugua, general of division, addressed to the intendant-général d'Égypte, and approved by Kleber.]

34^h. p. 1 (address on back). Dated at Cairo, 23 brumaire an 8 [13 Nov. 1799]. Drawn and signed by C. F. Y. Dugua, general of division, addressed to Mallém-Guerguis-Janhari, intendant général d'Égypte, and approved by the adjutant-general Poussietgue and by Kleber. With Arabic memoranda scrawled at the side and beneath.

Lafayette, Marie Jean Paul Roch Yves Gilbert de Motier, marquis de. [Letter appointing M. de St. Leger to the command of the post of Ruel.]

24×19. p. 1. Dated at Paris, 13 Aug. 1789. Signed Lafayette and bearing his seal.

— See also Paris—Garde nationale, and note at end of this section.

[Lettres de Paris.]

A body of letters, on quarto paper (23×18), numbered from 1 to 37, and written, at intervals of about a week, from 28 Dec. 1792 to 31 Aug. 1793; and another, of the same size and very probably from the same source, numbered from 38 to 26 and written between 26 June and 27 Sept. 1794. They are in varying hands and seem to be copies. Dealing wholly with political topics, they were clearly intended for circulation. Letters 16–28 (26 Apr.–16 July 1793) of the first series are written not from Paris but from Neuwied on the Rhine, and letter 26 of the second series is dated at Mayence. According to letter 29 the author of the preceding letters was a “Baron de * * *”.

Lindet, Jean Baptiste Robert, and Oudot, C. F. Armée des Côtes de Cherbourg. [Certificate that] Jean Baptiste Rempelberk est parti de Paris, et qu'il est avec nous, à son poste, à l'armée.

23^h. p. 1. Dated at Caen, 13 Aug. 1793. Signed by the officers of his battalion and approved by R. Lindet and C. F. Oudot as représentants du peuple—this approval (in Lindet's hand) being dated le 26^e jour du 1^{er} mois de la 2^e année de la république. With the seal of the army.

Louis XVI, of France. [Lettres de cachet, etc.]

A volume marked Lettres de cachet, containing documents of Louis XV and Louis XVI, with sundry papers of humbler source—141 pieces in all. The collection was bought in Paris from M. Charavay, in 1888. An earlier owner has thus classified its contents:

1. Demandes de lettres de cachet. 34.
2. Modèles officiels de lettres de cachet. 1.
3. Lettres de cachet en blanc. 3.
4. Lettres adressées aux individus pour se rendre en prison. 3.

Note.—The library has autographs of a few other persons who played a part in the French Revolution—as of Bonaparte and of Talleyrand—but the documents to which they are affixed belong to another period than that covered by this catalogue.

With the library of Jared Sparks there came into the Cornell University Library several letters of Lafayette. One of these, written to Washington from Uitmood near Plön, in Holstein, 20 Aug. 1798, contains much of political information; and of yet greater personal interest is one written to the Princess d'Henin from his dungeon at Magdeburg, 15 March 1793, with a tooth-pick and a little boot-blackening—"un peu de cirage et un curedent."

CARICATURES, PORTRAITS, ETC.

A faut esperer q'eu se jeu la finira bentot.

Colored engraving, 31×21.3, representing a bishop and a nobleman astride of an old peasant, who moves slowly, supported by his mattock, while pigeons and hares devour his grain and vegetables about his feet. The handle of the mattock bears the inscription: Mouillée de larmes. Out of the peasant's pocket hang papers inscribed: Sel et tabac—Tailles—Dixmes—Milices. Those hanging out of the prelate's pocket read: Evêque—Abbé de—Duc et pair—Comte D—Pension—Ostantation [sic]. For a sequel to this caricature see below, J'savois ben, etc.

L'abbé d'autre-fois.—L'abbé d'aujourd'hui.

Colored engraving, 30.7×20.5, representing two prelates, the one fat and sleek in full vestments, the other lank and sour in plain street garb.

Adieu Bastille.

Colored engraving, 30×45.9, representing a peasant with a tricolored cocade on his hat playing a bagpipe before the Bastille while the latter is being demolished. A priest and a noble, strung on a cord, dance on a board which the peasant works with his foot. Behind the peasant lies a lion, chained to the peasant's right arm.

Ah quelle crise! soutenez-moi car je chancelle.

Colored engraving, 42×29, representing the third estate as a fat and frightened burgher supported on one side by a lean priest and on the other by a leaner noble.

Bon nous voilà d'accord.

Colored engraving, 22.7×19, representing a noble, a peasant, and a priest playing a trio on pipe, violin, and serpent. The noble has a tricolored cocade on his hat.

La Coalition.

Circular engraving, diam. 19, representing, half length, a young woman smiling roguishly as with her strong hands she holds on her head a bonnet which the symbolic figures of the European powers are trying to tear off. The medallion on the neck of the woman bears the letters R F (République française), and the girdle around her waist the picture of a liberty cap. At base of sheet: Se vend à Paris chez Despeuille, rue des Mathurins St. Jacques, aux deux Pilastre d'or.

Le curé de St accompagné de deux diables descend dans l'empire des demons pour demander à Belzebuth leurs princes des secours pour tacher s'il est possible d'empêcher l'exécution de la Constitution Civile Ecclesiastique. Où va't'en au diable.

Colored engraving, 36×25.6. One of the two devils carries the curé, the other his wallet. Before them a skeleton, a red mantle on its shoulders, climbs a ladder out of a pit, whose flames rise behind. On the reverse is a ms. Russian translation of the French subscription.

D'animaux malfaisants c'étoit un très bon plot.

Circular engraving, diam. 7.7. Lafayette, the Duc d'Orléans, and the Duc d'Aiguillon—the first half-horse, the second half-lion, the third half-monkey—about a fire. Aiguillon casts coins from a purse into the fire, Orléans picks them up and tosses them over his shoulder, Lafayette seems to be catching and eating them.

De la France aujourd'hui voila la triste Image Des brigands furieux, l'ont mis toute au pillage. Ils emportent notre Or, laissant des Assignats, Nos avis sont étouffés par des Assassins.

Engraving, 12×7.5. A blazing house, marked à la France Libre, Hôtel à Louer. Plunderers emerge loaded with spoil. A man at an upper window scatters tittes de noblesse upon the crowd below. In the background a victim hanging à la lanterne.

Le dentiste nationale.

Colored engraving, 17.4×25, representing a clergyman having a tooth taken out. Each member of the group about him speaks. A peasant says: Ah Bravo! Il y a assè longtemps qu'il nous rongéait. The dentist exclaims: Tout ou rien. A lady protests: Ah! faites lui grace du Chicot. A noble supports his head, saying: Mon frere prenez patience. A deputy demands: M^r l'abbé A dieu la dixme. And two children exclaim: V^l la c'que c'est d'être trop gourmand.

Départ du général parisien pour la fameuse nuit du 5 au 6 octobre.

Circular engraving, diam. 7.7. A horse with the head of Lafayette is being led forth by a sans-culotte from a building marked l'Hôtel de Ville and pointed out the route de Versailles. An armed troop is in the background. Beneath are the words Mes amis, menez moi, je vous prie, coucher à Versailles.

Émigrand · Revenant · a · Paris.

Colored engraving, 26.1×17.8, with the above subscription. It represents a shabbily dressed nobleman with a long staff, marching along a country road.

La France figurée sous un globe est soutenu du peuple. La noblesse et le clergé aide au premier. La ruche représente les trois ordres réunis.

Engraving, 44×38.7, representing a peasant bent under the weight of a crowned globe, which is steadied on either side by a knight and a bishop.

O Frankreichs Lillie! Warum liest du dich von Ungeheuern entblättern? Vierzehn geheim verborgene Silhouetten von besonderer Aehnlichkeit.

1. Der König, 2. die Königin v. Frankreich, 3. der Tauphin, 4. die königl. Princessin, 5. Franz der II röms. Kaiser, 6. die Kaiserin v. Russland, 7. König v. England, 8. König v. Preussen, 9. Robespierre, 10. Hebert, 11. Orleans, 12. Pethion, 13. Marath, 14. Mirabeau.

Engraving, 37.2×22.7. Above the picture stands the first sentence of the title, and beneath it the remainder. A lily is being mutilated by two snake-like monsters. The silhouettes are formed by the outlines of the leaves and of the monsters and by those of the crown-bearing horns in the upper corners of the picture. Figures showing their positions have been written on the back of the sheet. In the left and right hand lower corners stand respectively the words: P. Scherz sc., G. Pokorny sc. Brunce.

Le grand mal de coeur de Monseigneur.

Colored engraving, 26×38.2, representing a bishop sitting in a chair and a physician holding his left hand on the bishop's brow, while the latter vomits forth scrolls inscribed Prieur de 20000—Benefice 30000—Abbaye 50000—Abbay de 80000. One which reads Vivre avec 40000 cela n'est pas pas the bishop holds in his right hand. The physician says: Courage M^r vous allè vous purgé de chose bien utile pour votre salut. At the bishop's left stands a table with medicine, and at his right another with his gilded mitre.

La grande aiguiserie royale de poignards anglais.

Colored engraving, 43.5×57.8, representing George III in a treadmill turning a grindstone for Pitt to sharpen a dagger. Daggers and a sword lie on the floor among bags of gold inscribed: Coriot, Assassin Paris, l'Admiral. The sword bears the name Amédée Cecile Regnault. Beneath is the explanation: Le fameux ministre Pitt aiguisant les poignards avec lesquels il veut faire assassiner les défenseurs de la liberté des peuples, le gros Georges Dandin tournant la roue et haletant de fatigue.

Hollandia regenerata.

[London, 1794.] 38×28. 20 monochrome plates, with 20 pp. of explanations in Dutch, French, and English. "This book serves to show the speedy disenchantment of the nations 'set free' by the French revolution."—MS. note of A. D. W.

Ils les avaient trop longs.

Colored engraving, 25.7×21.6, representing a young man trimming the nails of a clergyman and a noble.

J'savois ben qu' jaurions not our.

Colored engraving, 33.1×21.6. The scene is the same as in the first caricature described above (A faut esperer, etc.), but the peasant is now astride of the noble, who leans his hands on the sides of the clergyman before him. The latter bears a pair of scales, in one side of which is "Soulagement du peuple," and in the other "Égalité et Liberté." The peasant carries a dead hare slung over his shoulder on the noble's sword (with the inscription: Remplie de courage), and the pigeons lie dead beside the mattock. Above the clapping hands of the peasant is the inscription: Vive le Roi, Vive la Nation. A billet hanging out of the peasant's pocket bears the words: Paix et concordé. On the sword of the noble stands: Pour protéger la nation. The billet protruding from the prelate's pocket bears: Impôt territorial. The handle of the mattock is inscribed: Infatigable. All three persons wear tricolored cocades. In the right-hand lower corner of the picture stands: 1789 A. P.

[Louis XVI.]

A locket, diam. 7, containing a colored picture of Louis wearing a red liberty-cap, on which is the tricolored cocade. The locket is of brass.

Ma finte, Monsieur, je crois que vot habit d'officier m'irois ben.

Colored engraving, 30.5×22.2, representing a commoner trying on the resplendent uniform of a noble, while the latter sits stripped and sulking. A priest stands beside him, finger on lip.

Magicienne consultée sur la révolution de 1789.

Colored engraving, 24.6×34.2. The sorceress points at the representatives of the four quarters of the world, dancing together in the air. A commoner looks at the spectacle in transport, a noble in dismay, while a priest is horrified by what he sees in the mirror of the witch. Pride as a peacock and avarice as a demon take their flight. Beneath the title are the words: Orgueil dompté, avarice punie, mérite reconnu, union des quatre parties du monde.

[Marat.]

Engraving, 48.3×38.5. Head, in a bonnet, with the eyes and mouth half opened. Above the picture: Marat tel qu'il était au moment de sa mort. Under the picture: Ne pouvant me corrompre, il m'ont assassiné. In the four corners: A Marat—l'Ami—du peuple—David.

[Maury, D'Éprémessnil, and Mirabeau-Tonneau.]

Colored engraving, 43×28.9. Clergy, Parliament, and Nobility, in the persons of the Abbé Maury, D'Éprémessnil, and the Vicomte de Mirabeau, are on their knees and beset by demons. Over the head of each is a lanterne. On either side stand a peasant and his wife, flogging them and tarring on theimps. The peasant is saying: Avec de la Patience on vient à bout de tout; Labor omnia vincit improbus, and On ne peut trop les punir, Ils nous ont fait assez souffrir. The Abbé Maury says: Je demande pardon à Dieu et à la Nation D'avoir agi contre la nouvelle Constitution. D'Éprémessnil: La Nouvelle Loi me rend justice, En me conduisant au supplice. Mirabeau: Je vais subir le sort dû à mes trahisons; Deux Diables contre moi acharnés font échoir ma Conspiration. Maury is marked La Rage, D'Éprémessnil, Le Desespoir, and Mirabeau, L'Envie.

Mirabeau.

Bust, 53.4×40.4. In the left-hand lower corner: Dessiné et gravé par Bréa d'après le buste moulé sur nature par Deseine. In the right corner: Imprimé par Villain.

M. le marquis de Vieille Roche protestant contre les decrets de l'Assemblée nationale.—M. le vieux marechal aristocrate effraié de la bourasque parisienne.—L'officier aristocrate mettant les pouces devant les patriotes français.—M. le chevalier, ancien courtisan sans titres ni pension.

Four colored engravings on one sheet, 12.5×8.2 each, representing as many old courtiers in various postures of anger and dismay.

Monsieur Veto.

Colored engraving, 24.3×32.2, representing a naked savage, with claws on hands and feet, and thunderbolts darting from his mouth at a soldier and at a group of peasants who are pursuing him. His broken sword lies on the ground. He is about to escape into the open gate of a palace, welcomed by a priest and a noble. The inscription reads:

Quel est donc le seigneur Veto
Qui plus bruyant que Figaro
Sans être du Canton de Berne
Veut du peuple faire un zero
Sans redouter ce numéro
Menez le vite à la lanterne.

Un Monstre à trois têtes designant les trois états de l'Aristocratie s'occupe à dévorer le reste du Cadavre du peuple qu'il a englouti impitoyablement dans ses entrailles carnivores. Il est précédé du Fanatisme aux Queues de Dragon et qui est vetu d'un Froc Monacal, il porte a Califourchon sur son dos l'Hypocrisie pressante un serpent qui distile son Poison Aristocratique.

Colored engraving, 26.5×36, with the above subscription, which sufficiently describes it.

La nation française assistée de Mr De la Fayette terrasse le Despotisme et les Abus de Regne Feodal qui terrassaient le Peuple.

Necker.

Engraving by A. de St. Aubin from a painting by I. S. Duplessis, 16.8×10.6 bust. Below the portrait the inscription: M. Necker; Ministre d'Etat, Directeur Général des Finances. At bottom: Se vend à Paris chez l'Auteur rue des Prouvaires, No. 54.

Par moy vous êtes tous frères.

Colored engraving, 31.3×23.4, representing religion, with a large cross in her left hand, addressing the representatives of the three estates. Beneath the title the explanation of the figures: 1. La Religion. 2. le Clergé. 3. la Noblesse. 4. le Tiers état.

Philipe pique.

Engraving, 8.5×5.6. The Duc d'Orléans as the king of spades.

Le pied de nez, ou l'aristocratie écrasée.

Colored engraving, 35.4×25.2. In the centre a winged female figure standing on a globe, a naked sword in her hand. Another winged figure flies toward her, blowing a trumpet and bearing a laurel wreath. Prostrate before her lies a long-nosed demon, crowned and brandishing a broken sword. About are gathered aristocrats lay and clerical, male and female, all with absurdly long noses.

Reveil du tiers état.

Colored engraving, 24.5×31.4, representing an individual with a tricolor cocade on his hat, who is about to rise from the ground, breaking his chains and seizing the weapons by his side. A priest and a noble look on in horror. In the background is the Bastille, a body of soldiers, and two high poles with heads on them. The subscription reads: Ma feinte, il étoit temps que je me reveillasse, car l'oppression de mes fers me donnoient le coquemar un peu trop fort.

Saint Pierre reniant le pape Pie VI.

Colored engraving, 23.4×17, representing the Pope kneeling before the gate of Paradise and St. Peter turning him away, while Moses and Elias from within the gate look over St. Peter's shoulder.

Signalement des Chouans et autres contre-revolutionnaires [sic].

Colored engraving, 28.3×19.5, representing three lean, tall figures, two armed with clubs, the third with an enormous sword and what seems a bag. Beneath the tall figures is the subscription: Officiers généraux de l'armée thermidorienne sortant du Café de Chartres allant en expéditions armées de batons, sabres, et de tous les termes techniques reçu dans cette humaine confrairie [sic], pour assassiner affamer et égorger le peuple et les patriotes par milliers. The figures are made to say: 1. Vive la Convention. 2. A bas les Jacobins. 3. Conspirations trouvées [sic] dans un mouchoir.

Le tems, ou le moissonneur moderne.

Circular engraving, diam. 7.5. The abbé Maury, a goat from the waist down and armed with a scythe, is in the act of mowing down a clump of herbage whose blades bear the names Vérité, Confiance, Espérance, Bonne Foi, etc., etc.

Le tiers état mariant les religieux avec les religieuses.

Colored engraving, 17.6×27.5, representing a procession of monks from a monastery in the background meeting a procession of nuns from a neighboring nunnery. A figure in red and blue, with a tricolored cocade on his hat, stands at the point of meeting and betroths each nun to a monk.

Tôt tôt tôt

battez chaudi
tôt tôt tôt
bon Courage
il faut avoir coeur à l'ouvrage.

Colored engraving, 19.3×19.2, representing a peasant, a clergyman, and a noble, hammering on an anvil a volume inscribed: Nouvelles constitutions.

Le trésor tiré des ténèbres [sic].

Colored engraving, 37.4×24, representing a peasant pulling up out of the earth by a rope, with the help of a priest and a noble, a bundle of paper rolls inscribed: Voeux de la Nation and Nouvelle constitution. A woman carrying a liberty cap on a staff stands below and helps to lift the bundle. Above the picture runs the inscription: Ha je seront ben Content quand j'aurons tous ces Papiers la.

Les trois ordres avec leurs attributs, sous le niveau.

Monochrome engraving, 21.4×32.1, with representatives of the three orders standing under a level, which rests upon their heads, let down from above by the genius of the revolution. Between the figures are pictures of the Palais Bourbon and Notre Dame. Beneath the title: A Paris chez [sic] Crépey rue St. Jacques à St. Pierre.

Trois têtes sous l'même bonnet.

Monochrome engraving, 21×32.2. An old peasant seated on a rock holds a triangular picture representing the three estates. On the apex of the picture he has hung his liberty cap. Opposite him a stone slab bears these words: Moi de tous les états l'pere nourricier j'ai qu'il faudroit que tout fut ainsi pour que tous Sarangi. Pour not bon Roi et ma patrie.

Versailles. Salle du Jeu de Paume.

10.9×16.4. A photograph of the hall as now restored.

Vive la liberté—Vive la liberté.

Colored engraving, 17.2×14.4, representing a prisoner in a dimly lighted cell, standing on a bunch of straw, chained by waist and neck to a wall, and uttering the above exclamation.

Note.—In its collection of the caricaturists of other nations at this period the library has also much dealing with the revolution in France—notably in the caricatures of the Englishman Gillray.

Babeuf, François Noel, dit Caius Gracchus. Précis d'un projet de cadastre perpétuel.

MS. copy. 22×18. pp. [4]-50+plan. A port. of Babeuf is inserted. Neatly written, not in Babeuf's own hand—though the signature at end and the last paragraph on p. 50 may possibly be his. The treatise was printed in 1790; but, as it had been in preparation since 1787, this copy may well be of earlier date. Appended is (1) a prospectus (pp. 3), in a different hand, on the upper left-hand corner of which, in what seems Babeuf's own hand, is noted the date Nov. 1789 and the words N° 4; (2) an autograph letter of Babeuf's to A. Lamy concerning his cadastre; (3) an earlier draft of the Cadastre perpétuel, in Babeuf's own hand, under the title of Mémoire pour servir à la classification juste, facile et perpétuelle de toutes les contributions assises sur les biens fonds, etc. The last-named consists of 11 leaves, of which the 4th is a colored plan, and the 6th has been half cut away. It is signed Babeuf, Archiviste-Fendiste, à Roy, en Picardie. Between this and the foregoing are inserted 2 printed plates (folded), illustrating the cadastre. In vol. lettered G. Babeuf, Journal de la haute cour de justice.

Volney, Constantin François Chasseboeuf, comte de. [Oeuvres. 2^e éd. complète.]

Paris, 1826. 22^h. 8 v. With no collective title save the half-title. Though Volney played a considerable part in the revolution and nearly all his writings breathe its spirit, there is almost nothing in his collected works (which, spite of their claim to completeness, do not include his political utterances) bearing directly on its history. His Les ruines, ou méditation sur les révolutions des empires (publ. in 1791) and his La loi naturelle (first publ., in 1793, under the title of Catéchisme du citoyen français) are perhaps most significant; but his Précis de l'état de la Corse (1793) alone deals with current events in France. The first two are in vol. i, the last in vol. vii.
